New Vigor Is Displayed By Business

Retail Sales, Output Climb although Steel Production Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed vigor was injected into the business bloodstream this week.

These developments improved an economic picture that had been getting rather cloudy:

1. The nation's production hit a record rate of about 500 billion dollars annually in the January-March quarter.
2. Retail sales, including new passenger cars, picked up.
3. The stock market staged a rally.

But everything wasn't rosy. Steel and automobile production dipped from the previous week. Living costs in February jumped back to the record level of November and indications were they were on an upward trend.

The production gain of 16½ million dollars over the fourth quarter of 1959 was the biggest in 10 years.

It prompted one high government official to say:

"A recession this year is conceivable only if the auto industry goes sour."

The rise in car sales in the second third of March was sweet news to the auto industry. It was hailed as the start of the anxiously awaited spring buying spurt.

Sales in the 10-day period totaled 159,800 cars, up 15 per cent from the first third of March, 11 per cent above a month ago and 3 per cent greater than a year ago.

Retail trade as a whole advanced appreciably over the previous week, when bad weather plagued stores. It was below a year ago but valid comparison was impossible because of the earlier Easter in 1959.

The stock market's spirits were buoyed by improving business news and availability of more money for financing. The market registered gains in three of the week's five sessions.

Volume on the New York Stock shares compared with 12,948,300 shares compared with 12,948,300 the previous week.

Steel production edged below the 90 per cent capacity rate for the first time since the striking workers went back on the job last November. First quarter production was estimated at 35 million tons and a softening of the market was inevitable.

The cost of living increase came after two months of declines. Major factors in the advance were rising interest rates on home mortgages and increases in the costs of health insurance.

The Labor Department's consumer price index moved up two-tenths of one per cent from January to 125.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

"Things are likely to get a little worse before they get better," said Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wholesale food prices reached a new 1960 high this week when the Dun & Bradstreet index rose to $5.97 from $5.91 the previous week. This was the highest since the week ended Sept. 18, 1959. The index represents the cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Briefly around the business scene: Movies aren't the only ones going in for scents. Monarch's paperbound western books will have a smell of saddle leather, cook books an odor of bakery goods. . . . General Instrument Corp. is marketing a 10-pound power plant that can produce electricity for a year on $10 worth of ordinary propane gas. . . . President Paul Jean Mather of the University of Massachusetts said business, in its contribution to education, is "niggardly, mean, stingy and shortsighted." . . . Paper producers are increasing prices on Kraft paper and multiwall bags. . . . American Motors plans to build an assembly plant in Brampton, Canada, to produce Ramblers.

Chamber of Commerce Group To Attend Regional Session

Seven members of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce will attend a regional meeting of the Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development at Ohio State University April 4.

They are officers of the Chamber or members of its Industrial Development Committee. Slated to attend the session are Douglas Cotterman, Chamber president; Darrell Hatfield, Chamber executive secretary; Industrial Development Committee members Ned Harden, Robert K. Harrod, Eldred Parsons, Lawrence Callahan and Judge William Radcliff.

They will join about 1,000 other Central Ohio civic and industrial leaders.

The meeting, being co-sponsored by the Office of Community Development of Ohio State University's Engineering Experiment Station, will be held in the Ohio Union.

Another Cuban Aide Quits Castro Crew

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuba's naval attaché in Mexico Friday joined the swelling ranks of Fidel Castro supporters who accuse the bearded Prime Minister of turning the Cuban revolution into a Communist-style dictatorship.

"The revolution has been betrayed," declared Capt. Jaime Varela Canosa, who said he would seek asylum in the United States "where one can breathe in an air of democracy and Christian liberty."

The 35-year-old officer was expected to cross the U.S. border at Laredo, Tex., today along with two aides who also resigned their posts at the Cuban Embassy. Varela Canosa's wife and three daughters were to join him later.

The attaché asserted in a farewell message left with friends that "in Cuba there exists a dictatorship of Communist inspiration, which has resulted in the negation of all liberties."

He charged the three directing the island republic toward outright communism were Castro, Ernesto Guevara, head of the Cuban National Bank; and Castro's younger brother, Raul, commander of the armed forces.

Varela Canosa said he hoped his navy comrades "who still remain blind before the reality which confronts Cuba under the iron tyranny of Dr. Castro will understand my attitude."

He was the fourth Cuban attaché in recent weeks to defect charging the Castro government and Cuban armed forces with heavy Communist infiltration.

Turnpike Driver's Lie Proves To Be Costly

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — His efforts to avoid paying a $2.55 Ohio Turnpike toll has cost Gravan S. Scott, 34, of Wilmington, Del., a fine of $250 and a 30-day jail sentence.

The penalty was imposed on him when he pleaded guilty to concocting a story that two sailors he picked up along the toll road had robbed him of his money (about $35) and a camera. He said the robbery took place at the Middle Ridge Service Plaza in Lorain County last Feb. 27.

Patrolmen Nab Suspect In Liquor Store Theft

ORRVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Four men held up a state liquor store here last Friday and fled with $900. State highway patrolmen stopped a car suspected of being the get-away car a half hour later a mile north of Wooster and took one man into custody. Three others fled into a field.

He Keeps Lone Vigil, Awaiting Angela

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Urbita Springs once was a lovely wooded area on the edge of San Bernardino. Lovers strolled its tree-shaded paths, listening to the tinkling noises of a nearby amusement park. And eight years ago, a lonely boy found romance here with a pretty girl in a white dress.

But now Urbita Springs is abandoned, its overgrown pathways littered with beer cans.

Despite its desolation, Edward Berg, now 26 and a Chicago Ill., high school teacher, still returns to this spot every year on March 24—seeking a girl he can't forget.

"The day will come when she will return," he said Thursday. "And when she does, I'll be here."

Berg met and fell in love with blonde and blue-eyed Angela Dornna when he came to San Bernardino in 1952 for a few weeks with his family. Their romance ended in 30 days. Angela's family moved to San Diego and 60 days later to Bermuda.

"We used to come here often," Berg recalled. "We'd make plans,

British Chief Due in U.S. For Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to avoid a U.S.-British split, President Eisenhower is reported ready to agree with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on a short-term ban against small underground nuclear weapons test as part of a package deal with the Soviet Union.

Macmillan is flying to Washington from London today for talks with the President at Camp David, Md., beginning Monday. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter will meet the Prime Minister on his arrival at Andrews Air Force Base tonight.

Macmillan is expected to urge conditional acceptance of a Soviet proposition for a nuclear test control treaty plus an indefinite moratorium on small underground test explosions of nuclear weapons, which would not be covered in the treaty.

Since the Soviet proposition was made a week ago, there has been strong opposition within the administration — from the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission — against accepting the moratorium along with the treaty.

Macmillan, on the other hand, has been under pressure to agree to the moratorium if that is essential to bring a halt to all other testing.

Herter told a news conference Friday that within the U.S. government agreement has been reached on a position which will be presented to Macmillan.

"Clearly, if we are going to discuss it with Mr. Macmillan," he said, "we are not going to announce it until after we have discussed with him his position, to see to what extent our two positions are reconciled."

Herter did, however, indicate that the United States has in mind some counterproposal to the Soviet Union in three-power negotiations under way at Geneva. He declined to say that the Soviet proposition is fully acceptable or completely unacceptable, then added: "I think you can gather from what I have said that there are parts of it that would not be acceptable."

One of these unacceptable features, Herter made clear, is the Soviet call for a moratorium on small weapons tests which would last indefinitely, beginning with a four- or five-year duration that would be extended upon expiration.

Hospital Error Kills 3 Babies

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The deaths of three infants in Truesdale Hospital was blamed today on the inadvertent use of boric acid solution instead of distilled water.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, state health commissioner, said Friday night the boric acid was used mistakenly in the infants formula.

He termed the mixup "a case of human error."

Dr. Frechette said the boric acid and distilled water were kept in a central supply room and were properly labeled. The liquids are similar in appearance. Distilled water was used because it is considered purer than tap water.

U.S. Is Thankful For Small Favors

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — When you paid your federal income tax this year, chances are you contributed more to your government's operation than the amount of the tax.

Did you fasten the withholding statement to the tax form with a paper clip? Well, Internal Revenue Service saved the clip.

Between now and the April 15 filing deadline, the Baltimore IRS office will collect enough paper clips to supply its receiving department for the coming year.

John Tamburo, in charge of the mail receiving room, says he has not ordered a paper clip for his department in 10 years.

He urges those who had been unable to attend the earlier regional meetings to try to make this final gathering.

Dean Harold A. Bolz of OSU's Engineering Experiment Station also announced that industrialists would be offered a post-meeting tour of the industrial research facilities available to them at Ohio State.

Civic and industrial leaders from the following counties have been invited: Franklin, Marion, Morrow, Knox, Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Pickaway and Fairfield.

Youth Confesses Church-Bombing

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — A fire bomb was thrown at a synagogue Friday night and two members of the congregation were shot when they rushed outside to investigate.

In the predawn hours today police routed a 16-year-old boy out of a downtown hotel room. They said he admitted throwing the bomb and firing the shots.

Circuit Solicitor Charles Wright identified the boy as Jerry Earl Hunt who was held on charges of assault with intent to murder.

He said Hunt told him he had planned the assault on the synagogue for two weeks because of a grudge against two Jewish boys.

Wright said Hunt told officers he was alone but police said they considered the case still open with the possibility more were involved.

Earlier this week Hunt told high school friends of his plot. Wright said, but nobody took him seriously.

Police Commissioner M.T. Mashburn said Hunt's grudge with the Jewish boys grew out of a chess game.

AA Missile Program Cut

Air Force Bomarc Funds Go Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a drastic cutback in its program for the Bomarc B, an anti-aircraft missile that so far has been unsuccessful in seven firing attempts.

The half a billion dollars saved will be put into more intercontinental missiles, the ballistic early warning system and speeding up work on the Midas satellite, which will spy enemy missiles almost as soon as they are launched.

The Air Force also said it is cancelling some combat control centers in the SAGE system. SAGE stands for Semi-Automatic Ground Environment, and is an electronic system for detecting enemy attackers and deploying U.S. defense forces. An effective SAGE system will be completed.

The House Appropriations Committee last summer accused the Air Force of waste and extravagance for continuing the Bomarc B program. At the time the Air Force was wrangling with the Army about the respective merits of the Bomarc B and the Army's Nike-Hercules, an operational missile with a shorter range.

In addition to beefing up Atlas ICBMs, Midas and the land-based warning system, the Air Force announced these objectives:

1. Improvement of the super-sonic jet fighter system and modernization of the present radar system.
2. Development of "an advanced fire control and missile system" for interceptor planes.
3. A speedup in development of the Minuteman solid-fuel intercontinental missile, which can stand ready in underground launching tubes or be moved around on rail cars.

West Believes Reds Ready To Talk Seriously on Arms

GENEVA (AP) — Western officials said today they believed the Soviet Union may soon give up its stonewall tactics and get down to real negotiations at the 10-nation disarmament conference.

By the end of its second week, the conference has produced little more than preliminary skirmishing. But the Western delegates are encouraged by the relaxed atmosphere. There was a general feeling that the Soviets may adopt a more elastic approach, particularly as the East-West summit meeting now only seven weeks away, comes closer.

The United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada have submitted a three-stage disarmament plan studded with control provisions and setting no time limit.

The Soviet plan, first outlined by Premier Nikita Khrushchev last year, calls for general and complete disarmament within four years, under control provisions described by Western delegates as so vague they are meaningless.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin has refused to be drawn out on how the controls would operate. There can be no discussion of controls until the conference has agreed on what should be controlled, he said Friday.

The Western delegations are unwilling to agree to specific disarmament measures without knowing how these would be verified. Going ahead they fear would expose them to public opinion pressure to carry out arms cuts that the Soviet bloc may subsequently refuse to put under adequate inspection.

One of these unacceptable features, Herter made clear, is the Soviet call for a moratorium on small weapons tests which would last indefinitely, beginning with a four- or five-year duration that would be extended upon expiration.

Other authorities reported privately that the new U.S. position includes these conditions:

Hospital Error Kills 3 Babies

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The deaths of three infants in Truesdale Hospital was blamed today on the inadvertent use of boric acid solution instead of distilled water.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, state health commissioner, said Friday night the boric acid was used mistakenly in the infants formula.

He termed the mixup "a case of human error."

Dr. Frechette said the boric acid and distilled water were kept in a central supply room and were properly labeled. The liquids are similar in appearance. Distilled water was used because it is considered purer than tap water.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — When you paid your federal income tax this year, chances are you contributed more to your government's operation than the amount of the tax.

Did you fasten the withholding statement to the tax form with a paper clip? Well, Internal Revenue Service saved the clip.

Between now and the April 15 filing deadline, the Baltimore IRS office will collect enough paper clips to supply its receiving department for the coming year.

John Tamburo, in charge of the mail receiving room, says he has not ordered a paper clip for his department in 10 years.

Ohio Hog Prices Show Continuing Climb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hog prices are still on the rise, the State Agriculture Department reports, with prices paid for Ohio market hogs this week averaging 10 cents more than last week at $15.85 per 100 pounds.

Sow prices were mostly unchanged with choice light sows at $13 to $13.75.

Receipts at 85 interior Ohio yards numbered 51,000 head this week—14 per cent less than last week and 7 per cent less than the same period a year ago.

New Vigor Is Displayed By Business

Retail Sales, Output
Climb although Steel Production Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed vigor was injected into the business bloodstream this week.

These developments improved an economic picture that had been getting rather cloudy:

1. The nation's production hit a record rate of about 500 billion dollars annually in the January-March quarter.

2. Retail sales, including new passenger cars, picked up.

3. The stock market staged a rally.

But everything wasn't rosy.
Steel and automobile production dipped from the previous week.
Living costs in February jumped back to the record level of November and indications were they were on an upward trend.

The production gain of 16½ million dollars over the fourth quarter of 1959 was the biggest in 10 years.

It prompted one high government official to say:

"A recession this year is conceivable only if the auto industry goes sour."

The rise in car sales in the second third of March was sweet news to the auto industry. It was hailed as the start of the anxiously awaited spring buying spurt.

Sales in the 10-day period totaled 159,800 cars, up 15 per cent from the first third of March, 11 per cent above a month ago and 3 per cent greater than a year ago.

Retail trade as a whole advanced appreciably over the previous week, when bad weather plagued stores. It was below a year ago but valid comparison was impossible because of the earlier Easter in 1959.

The stock market's spirits were buoyed by improving business news and availability of more money for financing. The market registered gains in three of the week's five sessions.

Volume on the New York Stock shares compared with 12,948,300
shares compared with 12,948,300
the previous week.

Steel production edged below the 90 per cent capacity rate for the first time since the striking workers went back on the job last November. First quarter production was estimated at 35 million tons and a softening of the market was inevitable.

The cost of living increase came after two months of declines. Major factors in the advance were rising interest rates on home mortgages and increases in the costs of health insurance.

The Labor Department's consumer price index moved up two-tenths of one per cent from January to 125.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

"Things are likely to get a little worse before they get better," said Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wholesale food prices reached a new 1960 high this week when the Dun & Bradstreet index rose to $5.97 from $5.91 the previous week. This was the highest since the week ended Sept. 18, 1959. The index represents the cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Chamber of Commerce Group To Attend Regional Session

Seven members of the Circle-will attend a regional meeting of the Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development at Ohio State University April 4.

They are officers of the Chamber or members of its Industrial Development Committee. Slated to attend the session are Douglas Cotterman, Chamber president; Darrell Hatfield, Chamber executive secretary;

Industrial Development Committee members Ned Harden, Robert K. Harrod, Eldred Parsons, Lawrence Callahan and Judge William Radcliff.

They will join about 1,000 other Central Ohio civic and industrial leaders.

The meeting, being co-sponsored by the Office of Community Development of Ohio State University's Engineering Experiment Station, will be held in the Ohio Union.

He urges those who had been unable to attend the earlier re-this final gathering.

Another Cuban Aide Quits Castro Crew

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuba's naval attaché in Mexico Friday night joined the swelling ranks of Fidel Castro supporters who accuse the bearded Prime Minister of turning the Cuban revolution into a Communist-style dictatorship.

"The revolution has been betrayed," declared Capt. Jaime Varela Canosa, who said he would seek asylum in the United States
"where one can breathe in an air of democracy and Christian liberty."

The 35-year-old officer was expected to cross the U.S. border at Laredo, Tex., today along with two aides who also resigned their posts at the Cuban Embassy.

Varela Canosa's wife and three daughters were to join him later.
The attaché asserted in a farewell message left with friends that "in Cuba there exists a dictatorship of Communist inspiration, which has resulted in the negation of all liberties."

He charged the three directing the island republic toward outright communism were Castro, Ernesto Guevara, head of the Cuban National Bank; and Castro's younger brother, Raul, commander of the armed forces.

Varela Canosa said he hoped his navy comrades "who still remain blind before the reality which confronts Cuba under the iron tyranny of Dr. Castro will understand my attitude."

He was the fourth Cuban attaché in recent weeks to defect charging the Castro government and Cuban armed forces with heavy Communist infiltration.

Ike OKs Short-Term Ban On Small Nuclear Tests

Youth Confesses Church-Bombing

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP)—A fire bomb was thrown at a synagogue Friday night and two members of the congregation were shot when they rushed outside to investigate.

In the predawn hours today police routed a 16-year-old boy out of a downtown hotel room. They said he admitted throwing the bomb and firing the shots.

Circuit Solicitor Charles Wright identified the boy as Jerry Earl Hunt who was held on charges of assault with intent to murder.

He said Hunt told him he had planned the assault on the synagogue for two weeks because of a grudge against two Jewish boys.

Wright said Hunt told officers he was alone but police said they considered the case still open with the possibility more were involved.
Earlier this week Hunt told high school friends of his plot, Wright said, but nobody took him seriously.

Police Commissioner M.T. Mash-burn said Hunt's grudge with the Jewish boys grew out of a chess game.

A car containing a .22 caliber rifle was found abandoned near the synagogue a few moments after the homemade bomb hit and burst into flames.

"We think this is the car that was used," said Mashburn.

Mashburn said he had heard reports that anti-Semitic literature was distributed here Friday.

One of the gunshot victims Alan Cohn, 35, was in serious condition with wounds in the chest and back.
The other, Alvin Lowi, 64, suffered a hand wound.

Police said the bomb, a soft drink bottle loaded with kerosene or gasoline, struck a stained glass window. The glass shattered but the wire mesh in the glass kept the bottle from crashing through.

"Some of the fire came in,"
said Hyman Rosenberg, president of the congregation. "You could see it falling to the floor and burning."

Mrs. Lowi, wife of one of the wounded men, gave this account of what followed:

"The glass broke. It was a terrible feeling. Mr. Cohn was sitting near the back. He was the first to run out.

"Just after he ran out, there was a shot. My husband ran out and somebody yelled for him to duck.
They got him in the hand."

Lowi's son David, about 30, was the third man out of the building.

"I came from another exit and ran around to the front of the building just as the car sped away.
They apparently shot at my father and Mr. Cohn because they thought they were trapped."

About 180 persons—including Methodist and Baptist ministers—were in the synagogue attending dedication ceremonies for a new wing.

AA Missile Program Cut

Air Force Bomarc
Funds Go Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a drastic cut-back in its program for the Bo-marc B, an anti-aircraft missile that so far has been unsuccessful in seven firing attempts.

The half a billion dollars saved will be put into more intercontinental missiles, the ballistic early warning system and speeding up work on the Midas satellite, which will spy enemy missiles almost as soon as they are launched.

The Air Force also said it is cancelling some combat control centers in the SAGE system.
SAGE stands for Semi-Automatic Ground Environment, and is an electronic system for detecting enemy attackers and deploying U.S. defense forces. An effective
SAGE system will be completed.

The House Appropriations Committee last summer accused the Air Force of waste and extravagance for continuing the Bomarc
B program. At the time the Air Force was wrangling with the Army about the respective merits of the Bomarc B and the Army's Nike-Hercules, an operational missile with a shorter range.

In addition to beefing up Atlas ICBMs, Midas and the land-based warning system, the Air Force announced these objectives:

1. Improvement of the super-sonic jet fighter system and modernization of the present radar system.
2. Development of "an advanced fire control and missile system" for interceptor planes.
3. A speedup in development of the Minuteman solid-fuel intercontinental missile, which can stand ready in underground launching tubes or be moved around on railroad cars.

Ohio Liquor Board Studies Permit Quotas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state has put a hurry-up freeze on new beer and wine carryovers across Ohio. Pending applications are unaffected.

The Board of Liquor Control, faced with a growing glut of permits, asked Gov. Michael V. Di-Salle to declare the temporary freeze.

The board hopes to make permanent the freeze on future permits. They will be issued under a quota system designed to maintain the present ratio between permits and population in the state's political subdivisions.

DiSalle signed the freeze request Friday and filed it with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to make it effective immediately.

The emergency freeze is effective for a maximum of 60 days, giving the board time to do the necessary things to make the freeze permanent, and at the same time shutting off new applications.

This is the first freeze since May 26, 1958.

Only new permit applications filed after the effective hour of the freeze will be subject to the new quota-ratio. The ratio will be determined by dividing the number of carryovers in a political subdivision such as a village or city—plus applications now pending in that subdivision—into the subdivi-sion's population.

For new subdivisions as they are created in the future, the automatic ratio-quota would be one high-power beer and wine carryover for each 1,000 population.

West Believes Reds Ready To Talk Seriously on Arms

GENEVA (AP) — Western officials said today they believed the Soviet Union may soon give up its stonewall tactics and get down to real negotiations at the 10-nation disarmament conference.

By the end of its second week,
the conference has produced little more than preliminary skirmishing. But the Western delegates are encouraged by the relaxed atmosphere. There was a general feeling that the Soviets may adopt a more elastic approach, particularly as the East-West summit meeting now only seven weeks away, comes closer.

The United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada have submitted a three-stage disarmament plan studded with control provisions and setting no time limit.

The Soviet plan, first outlined by Premier Nikita Khrushchev last year, calls for general and complete disarmament within four years, under control provisions described by Western delegates as so vague they are meaningless.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin has refused to be drawn out on how the controls would operate.
There can be no discussion of controls until the conference has agreed on what should be controlled, he said Friday.

The Western delegations are unwilling to agree to specific disarmament measures without knowing how these would be verified.

Going ahead they fear would expose them to public opinion pressure to carry out arms cuts that the Soviet bloc may subsequently refuse to put under adequate inspection.

British Chief Due in U.S. For Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to avoid a U.S.-British split, President Eisenhower is reported ready to agree with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on a short-term ban against small underground nuclear weapons test as part of a package deal with the Soviet Union.

Macmillan is flying to Washington from London today for talks with the President at Camp David, Md., beginning Monday. Secretary of State Christian A. Her-ter will meet the Prime Minister on his arrival at Andrews Air Force Base tonight.

Macmillan is expected to urge conditional acceptance of a Soviet proposition for a nuclear test control treaty plus an indefinite moratorium on small underground test explosions of nuclear weapons, which would not be covered in the treaty.

Since the Soviet proposition was made a week ago, there has been strong opposition within the administration — from the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission — against accepting the moratorium along with the treaty.

Macmillan, on the other hand, has been under pressure to agree to the moratorium if that is essential to bring a halt to all other testing.

Herter told a news conference
Friday that within the U.S. government agreement has been reached on a position which will be presented to Macmillan.

"Clearly, if we are going to discuss it with Mr. Macmillan," he said, "we are not going to announce it until after we have discussed with him his position, to see to what extent our two positions are reconciled."

Herter did, however, indicate that the United States has in mind some counterproposal to the Soviet Union in three-power negotiations under way at Geneva. He declined to say that the Soviet proposition is fully acceptable or completely unacceptable, then added: "I think you can gather from what I have said that there are parts of it that would not be acceptable."

One of these unacceptable features, Herter made clear, is the Soviet call for a moratorium on small weapons tests which would last indefinitely, beginning with a four- or five-year duration that would be extended upon expiration.

Other authorities reported privately that the new U.S. position includes these conditions:

Soil Erosion Has Destroyed 2,000 Good Pickaway Acres

More than 2,000 acres of Pickaway County cropland has been destroyed by soil erosion.

This startling fact and many others recently were reported to the Circleville Kiwanis Club by Pickaway District Soil Conservationist Donald Archer.

The local SCS expert said that the county has not only lost these acres forever, but that more than 7,500 acres of our best cropland is suffering from severe erosion and all of its top soil is gone.

Archer said that 43,000 acres of the county's best cropland has had moderate erosion and something needs to be done quick to prevent further acreage from suffering the same fate.

HE SAID THE COUNTY faces the following needs: 40,000 acres of contour farming; 4,000 acres of strip cropping; 147,000 acres of drainage; 21,000 miles of ditches; a total of 1,500 miles of open ditch; 20,000 acres of pasture improvement; 10,000 acres of woodland improvement, and 2,000 acres of tree planting.

Archer said the Federal Government realized the need for soil conservation back in 1935 when the Soil Conservation Service was established by Congress.

The county's conservation district was started in 1946 and has 490 farmers cooperating in the district now. The county has 1,600 farm cooperators available, but many have been slow to realize the need for soil conservation.

Archer said his department needs the help of every person in

Spittlebug Control Needed In Pickaway County in 1960

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Spraying of clover and alfalfa for control of spittlebug is strongly recommended for Pickaway County. Checks were made last fall on expected spittlebug population for this coming year. The results of these checks indicate greater spittlebug numbers will be present in 1960 than in any recent year. Yields of clover and alfalfa can be increased from 25 to 50 per cent.

Heptachlor, which was used last year, has been withdrawn from the recommended spittlebug controls. Recent studies have revealed that Heptachlor breaks down into a toxic compound, heptachlor epoxide. Unless the manufacturers of Heptachlor can show the Food and Drug Administration that neither Heptachlor nor heptachlor epoxide residues on sprayed forage will be carried over into milk, Heptachlor can no longer be legally used on clover and alfalfa.

The recommended treatment that we have for spittlebug control is two quarts of 25 per cent emulsifiable concentrate Methoxychlor per acre in at least 10 gallons of water. The spray should be made one week after spittlebugs first hatch. This is usually when the crop is about 6 inches high. At this stage spittlebugs are as big as a pin-head, orange in color, and the familiar spittle-mass is not yet present.

Spray at this stage for good coverage. It is difficult to get good coverage of clover or alfalfa when the plants are 10 to 12 inches tall. Do not pasture animals or harvest the crop for 7 days after treatment.

WASHINGTON GRANGE
Booster Night was observed at the Washington Twp. Grange meeting Tuesday evening at the school.

Welcome was given by Ralph DeLong, worthy master. Meeting opened with the opening of the Bible by the assisting stewards.

During the business session members voted to sponsor the lunch at the Grange Card Party, April 9, at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

It was announced that at the next meeting, April 12, a cancer program would be featured by the Cancer Society.

Russell Laidelich, lecturer, was in charge of the program. Loring Leist voiced prayer followed by the group singing "America the Beautiful".

DeLong gave the message from the national grange master, Herschel Newson. "What the Grange Is" was presented by Leist. Laidelich then gave "Be Your Brother's Keeper."

A VOCAL solo was rendered by Dave Bolender. "Why I Belong to Grange" was given by Frank Lands.

A solo, "How Great Thou Art" was voiced by Mary Valentine. "Facts on Easter Shopping" was five by Laidelich.

A movie entitled "Grange on the Job in Community" was shown by Walton Spangler.

4-H Club News

Buttons and Bowls
By Linda Styers

The organizational meeting of the Buttons and Bowls 4-H Club was held March 21, at the home of Mrs. Frank Lands. There were 18 members, two advisors, and three guests present.

Linda Styers, vice president of 1959 club, conducted the meeting until the new president was elected. Election of officers was held with the following results: president, Mary Streber; secretary, Karen Wolford; treasurer, Brenda Fausnaugh recreation leader, Bobby Lands; health leader, Cheryl Smith; safety leader, Sandra Grady; song leader, Carol Ann Spangler; and news reporter, Linda Styers. During the meeting it was decided to meet every other Monday evening and to have 10 cents dues each meeting.

Projects were discussed and information given the girls on the different projects.

The next meeting will be April 4 at the home of Mrs. Frank Lands.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Advisors for the club are Mrs. Frank Lands and Weta Mae Leist.

Jackson Jolly Tasters and Basters
By Nancy Stevenson

The third meeting was held on March 16 at the schoolhouse. It was opened with the 4-H pledge led by Susie Pontius. The girls who are taking sewing brought in their material and began to work on their dresses. The meeting was mostly about getting the books we need for our 4-H projects.

Refreshments followed the meeting.

Salt Creek Mix and Model
By Linda Fischer

Salt Creek Mix and Model club met at 7:30 p. m. March 15 at the home of Mrs. Donald Hardman. The club was organized and officers were elected for the year as follows: President, Donna Jo Hardman; vice president, Lana Fischer; secretary, Judy Hartman; treasurer, Beverly Hartman; news reporter, Linda Fischer; health leader, Beverly Speakman; safety leader, Carol DeLong, and recreation leaders, Sandra Elick and Elaine Judy.

It was decided that we keep the name of Salt Creek Mix and Model club. Our dues will be 10 cents. Mrs. Hardman read and explained the new point system to the members.

Our health leader gave topics to each member for our health meeting the next time. The secretary is to send in the cards the day after the meetings. The refreshment committee was planned for the 4-H club year.

Several mothers attended the meeting to discuss their children's projects and 4-H club work. Those present were Mrs. Edward Ingram, Mrs. Sterling Poling, Mrs. Bud Fischer, and Mrs. Orley Judy. Mrs. Jack Hato, Mrs. Richard Jordan and Mrs. Donald Hardman are the advisors for the club.

Refreshments were served by the advisors.

Second Year Electric Club
By Bryon Rose

The first meeting of the Second Year Electric Club was held March 17, at the REA Office in Circleville with Marion Mowery, advisor, and seven members.

We elected officers as follows: President, Donnie Cook; vice president, Pete Noble; secretary, Bryon Rose; treasurer, David Schein; news reporter, Gary Sharpe.

We voted to have our meetings the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month and also to pay ten cents dues.

In our meeting the size of wires, the amperes, and the distance that the wire will carry the amount of electricity was discussed.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. April 13 at the REA office in Circleville.

Western Cloverleaf Riding Club
By Larry McDowell

Vice president, James Cassidy, conducted the last meeting of the Western Cloverleaf Riding Club in the absence of the president Richard Hedges.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p. m. April 4, at the Fairgrounds Coliseum. Jessica Peart and Shirley Hamilton will serve refreshments.

Scioto Valley Machinery Club

The next meeting will be on April 11 at the school.

Granular Herbicides Show Some Advantages in Field

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Wider possibilities for controlling weeds by using herbicides (weed killers) in granular formulations was demonstrated recently by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Eleven different pre-emergence herbicides were compared in the liquid (or wettable powder) and corresponding granular formulation on corn, soybeans, and sugar beets. Little or no difference in results was detected following these treatments. Weeds were controlled as well by one formulation as the other, and the effect on the crop was not changed.

Granular formulations of most of the herbicides that are applied pre-emergence on crops in Ohio will be available in 1960. Most of the herbicides will cost more in granular form. For example, 2, 4-D granules will cost about 50 cents more than the liquid concentrate. The difference in cost of the granules of the newer pre-emergence herbicides will be somewhat greater.

The most feasible time to apply granular herbicides on field crops is at planting. Planting and herbicide application can be done in one operation. Uniform application is critical with the granules; however, applicators that meet this requirement are on the market.

Planter-mounted applicators cost about $75 to $100 depending on whether a separate compartment for granular insecticides is included, for each two-row unit.

GRANULAR herbicides need not be mixed with water. The hauling of water and preparing spray solutions for sprayers are time-consuming jobs. Granules are pre-mixed and considerably reduce the chance of error in application.

Both liquid and granular forms of pre-emergence herbicides will be rather ineffective if applied on dry soil and no rain follows until after the weeds are established. Most weed seeds germinate near the soil surface. Moderate rains are needed for germination of the weed seeds and subsequent absorption of the herbicide. The difference in depth at which the crop and weed seeds germinate largely make it possible to kill the weeds with pre-emergence herbicides without injuring the crop, though the crop usually must have some tolerance to the herbicide.

If considerable rain (about 1 inch or more) follows within a few days after application, most herbicides, regardless of whether they are applied in granular or liquid form, may be leached down to the germinating crop seed and cause damage. However, neither atrazine nor atrazin has damaged corn even when applied at rates considerably higher than recommended.

The use of granular formulations of certain herbicides such as 2, 4-D reduces the hazard of drift onto susceptible crops. However, fine granules that are present in the commercial material when purchased or formed by abrasive agitation in the hopper of the applicator or also may be carried by wind and damage near-by susceptible plants.

Granular herbicides are rather bulky and require more storage space and lifting than the concentrated liquids. The hoppers of most granular applicators are mounted rather high on the planter in order to obtain uniform flow through the feeder tubes. Loading the hoppers from the ground or from a truck may be a slight disadvantage.

The size of the granules of different herbicides may not be the same. Granular applicators are set to apply the correct amount of granules of each herbicide according to the chart that accompanies the applicator and - or the herbicide. However, as with spraying equipment and grain drills, the granular applicators should be calibrated for each operation.

Granular herbicides can be seen readily on the soil surface after application, thereby reducing the possibility of row skipping.

Herbicides that are rather volatile in liquid form may be slightly less volatile in granular form. However, the difference in volatility has not been reflected in differences in field results.

The toxic build-up in soil of herbicides suggested for field crops is precluded by their usual ready decomposition in soil regardless of whether they are applied in liquid (or wettable powder) or granular form.

THE AGRICO DIFFERENCE...

"Last Spring I fertilized most of a 36-acre corn field with Agrico, then used the same rate and analysis of my regular brand of fertilizer on the rest of the field. At harvest, the Agrico-fertilized corn produced 103 bu. per acre, 5½ more bu. than I got with the other fertilizer, giving me an extra profit of $5.65 per acre."

What made this Agrico Difference for Mr. Balzer? Just this: the Agrico fertilizer he used was specially formulated for his crop and soil conditions. For higher yields and profits on your next crop, use premium-quality Agrico.

Soil Erosion Has Destroyed 2,000 Good Pickaway Acres

More than 2,000 acres of Pickaway County cropland has been destroyed by soil erosion.

This startling fact and many others recently were reported to the Circleville Kiwanis Club by Pickaway District Soil Conservationist Donald Archer.

The local SCS expert said that the county has not only lost these acres forever, but that more than 7,500 acres of our best cropland is suffering from severe erosion and all of its top soil is gone.

Archer said that 43,000 acres of the county's best cropland has had moderate erosion and something needs to be done quick to prevent further acreage from suffering the same fate.

HE SAID THE COUNTY faces the following needs: 40,000 acres of contour farming; 4,000 acres of strip cropping; 147,000 acres of drainage; 21,000 miles of tile;

A total of 1,500 miles of open ditch; 20,000 acres of pasture improvement; 10,000 acres of woodland improvement, and 2,000 acres of tree planting.

Archer said the Federal Government realized the need for soil conservation back in 1935 when the Soil Conservation Service was established by Congress.

The county's conservation district was started in 1946 and has 490 farmers cooperating in the district now. The county has 1,600 farm cooperators available, but many have been slow to realize the need for soil conservation.

Archer said his department needs the help of every person in the county to keep the area prosperous, well fed and safe. He said we can accomplish this job if we start conserving our land and do not overuse it.

He said, "Failure to preserve our land is stealing and cheating the unborn generations."

ARCHER said that throughout the United States water and wind erosion has completely ruined 50 million acres of our best cropland. He stated another 100 million acres is badly damaged.

The conservationist said soil erosion is costing the U. S. nearly four billion dollars a year or four billion dollars in wasted soil.

He said soil conservation is using the soil to produce the greatest amounts of the things needed and at the same time protecting the soil so it will not lose its productivity.

Archer said two-thirds of factory-used material comes from the farm; 70 per cent of the goods sold by merchants comes from the farm;

Seventy per cent of the freight hauled by railroads, trucks and airplanes comes from the farm; 80 per cent of all water used is consumed by city residents, and 80 per cent of the water that falls as snow and rain falls on farm land.

"Thousands of cities, such as Circleville, exist only because they are business centers for surrounding farms. As the soil around these cities is depleted, the corresponding area becomes a poor market for the goods we produce and the services as well," Archer said.

HE SAID that in America the nation is establishing a record for destroying its soil faster than any other nation at any time in history, through unnecessary waste by erosion and evil and greedy agricultural methods.

He encouraged Kiwanians to become interested in soil conservation and investigate ways of helping reduce this tremendous record of soil waste of farm land — the backbone of the nation's economy.

High Court Changes Klumpp Appeal Hearing
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has changed the date of a hearing of Mrs. Edythe Klumpp's appeal from a first-degree murder conviction from April 21 to May 5. Mrs. Klumpp was sentenced to death in the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair for the Oct. 31, 1958, slaying of Mrs. Louise Bergen in Cincinnati. Mrs. Klumpp's attorney, William F. Hopkins, asked for the date change because he is scheduled to be in New York on another case April 21.

Convicted Slayer Happy With Jury's Decision
DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Larry Lord Motherwell, Sierra County's model prisoner, says he is grateful to a jury that voted for life imprisonment for him. Jurors could have given him the death penalty after finding him guilty of murdering Pearl Putney, 72, a well-to-do Washington, D.C., widow, whose bones were found near this mountain community. Motherwell, 42, an admitted liar and confidence man, has steadily denied killing the woman who took a cross-country auto trip with him in 1958.

240 Junior Scientists Display Expert Knowledge, Skill

Scene 1: Ready To Blow!

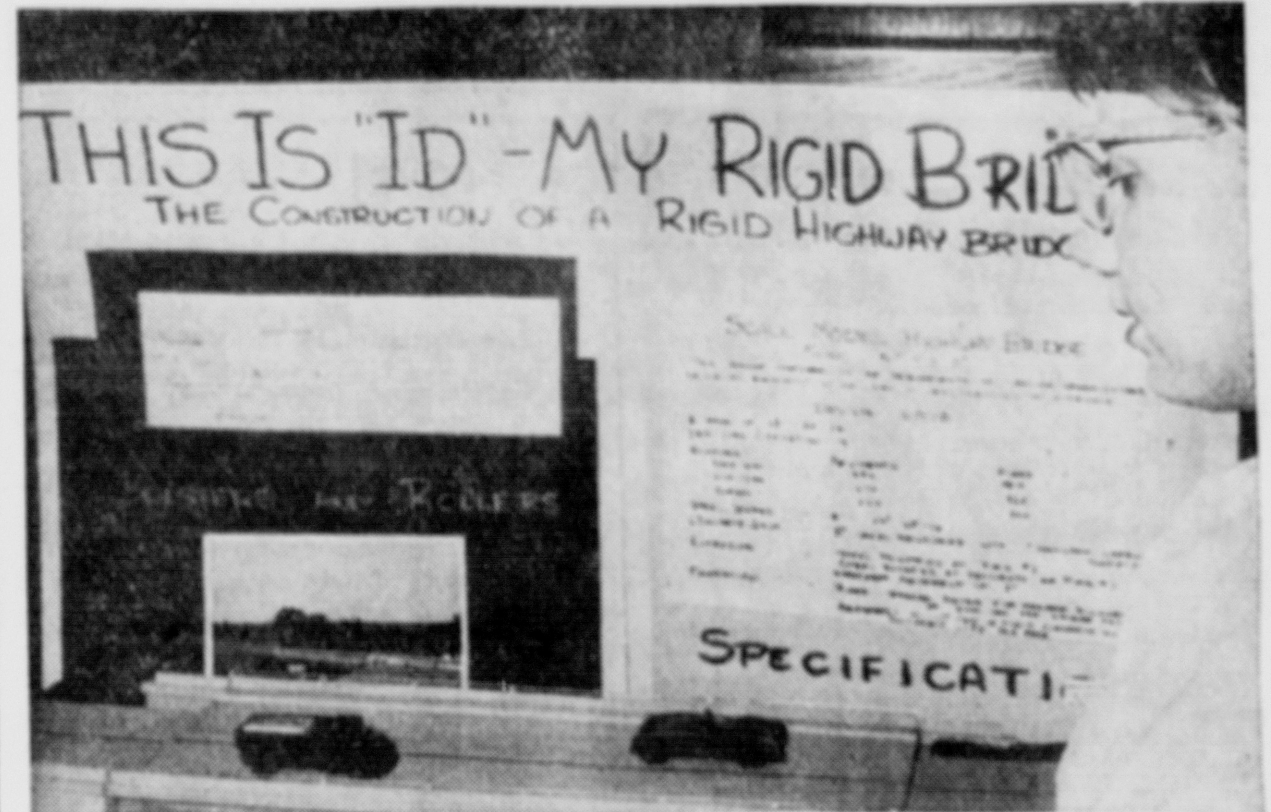

MANY INTERESTS DISPLAYED — Here Charles Smith, a 7th grade student, shows off a homing pigeon. It was one of several pigeons the youngster entered at the Science Fair. Charles' knowledge of pigeons stems from his hobby of raising the fancy birds. (Staff Photo)

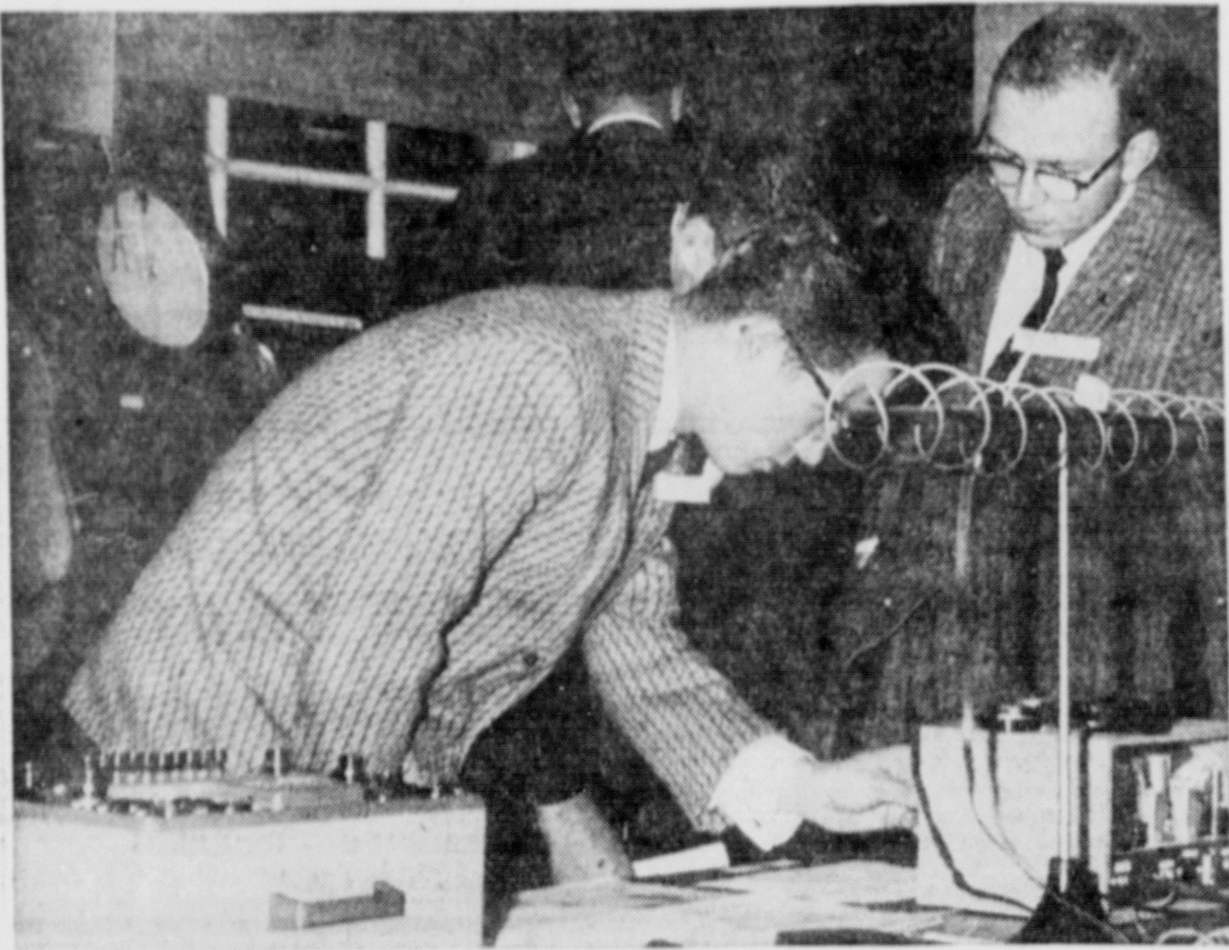

Scene 2: Volcanic Spectacular!

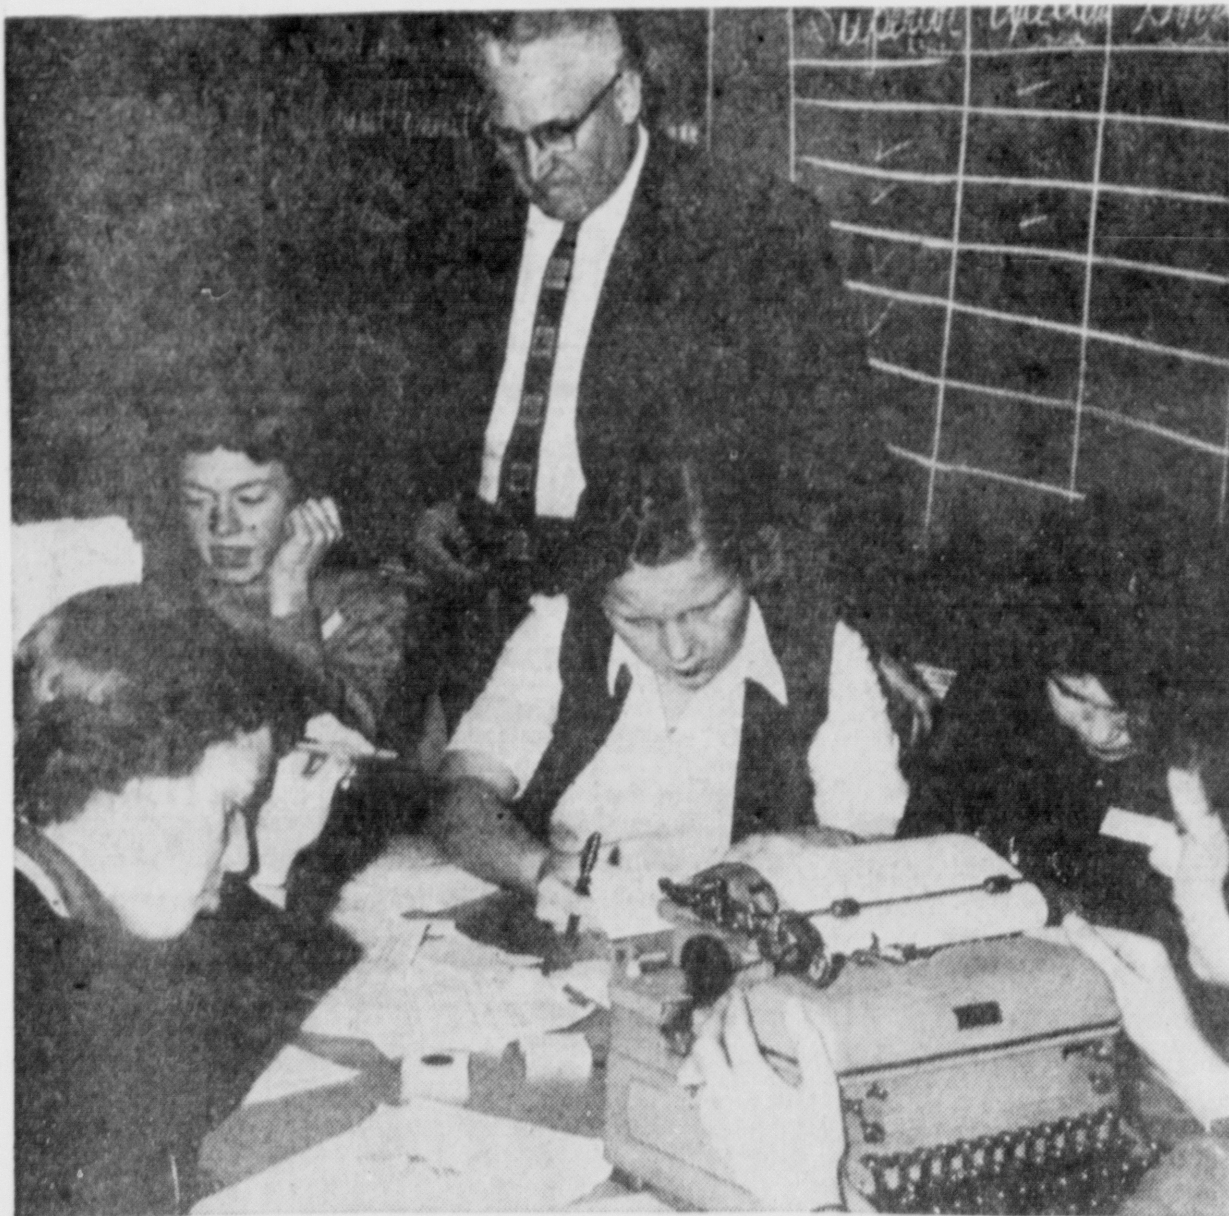

NANCY HARDEN looks on in amazement as her erupting volcano gives off its fancy fireworks. Her exhibit was one of the most spectacular at the Science Fair.

ENGINEERING MARVEL — Sandy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, 145 Montclair Ave., built a scale model of a highway bridge, with all the data on stresses and strains. Her display, plus the intimate knowledge she showed, gained her a "superior" rating for the science fair.

ELECTRONICS EXPLAINED — Here James Huff explains the workings of a radio outfit to a judge. Huff's exhibit was a short wave receiver and he received an "excellent" grade for his work. (Staff Photo)

Calories Still the Culprit

In the good old sample days, people regarded obesity as merely the result of eating more than the body could absorb. Then the word calorie became common banter, and many individuals began carrying tables, charts and miniature calculators to keep tab on their daily intake.

Now overweight has reached the stage of sophistication. Scientists at the University of Pennsylvania say mental attitudes and reactions are controlling factors. A new grant of $140,000 by the National Institute of Mental Health will finance further study into the fascinating realm of mental control over what were formerly considered physical maladjustments.

U. of P. researchers have come up with an interesting version of the "which came first?" riddle, in discovering that obese women are ill at ease at social functions, have frequent periods of depression and are much less active physically than their slim sisters. Their conclusion is that obesity is the result of such mental attitudes.

Physical inactivity was found particularly prevalent among overweight females, but men also gain weight as they slow down. In two groups of women, one normal weight and the other overweight, pedometers tallied 1.9 miles a day of walking for the obese, and 4.7 miles a day for the average weight study group.

One of the most common categories of overweight persons is the insatiable eater. This is the person who never seems to reach an intake limit and may constantly complain of being hungry, although he eats a greater quantity than the average. His trouble, say the researchers, is a faulty brain mechanism which is supposed to inform him when he has had enough.

Calories are still the visible culprits in obesity, but their overabundance is often the result of emotional or mental stresses. Perhaps further study will enable physicians to pinpoint specific trouble spots in the corridors of human tissue which reflect their deficiencies in obesity and other human imperfections.

Many Problems Face Space Travel

In a day when space travel is receiving loud, prolonged and deserved applause, it may seem ungracious to repeat certain realistic items from Science News Letter, but facts are facts regardless of wishful thinking.

Man does not appear to be able to remain in a space ship for the length of time it would now take to cruise to Mars, according to Dr. Hubertus S. Strughold, who teaches "space medicine" at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Computing the task at the most rapid propulsion yet devised or in immediate prospect, it would take a man nine months, cooped up in a space capsule, to make the trip from the earth to Mars. In scientific lingo, the "entire environment inside the cabin would need recycling."

In ordinary language, this boils down to the proposition that it would take a lot of food and air and water to make the grade, and there are obvious side problems.

Of course the problem of reaching planets of other suns would be infinitely greater. An earth-man would have to travel at the speed of light for several years to reach the goal, and then—likely as not—he would find dead planets or none at all.

And nobody thus far has figured out how to travel at the speed of light—186,000 miles a second.

No Compromise with Commies

It is a truism that to the most impudent go the spoils, particularly of politics. If the meek are to inherit the Earth, the day of inheritance is a long way off. This is as true in international relations as it is in the private world.

Soviet Russia has never been meek. From the very start of its existence in 1917, it has been aggressive, forceful, attacking. The reason has been that the Marxist is convinced of the inevitability of his success because of the laws, which he accepts, of historic necessity. Believing as he does, that the progress of man is due to the conflicting forces in a materialist world, he feels that what he needs to do is to wait. Meanwhile, Soviet Russia conducts an untiring war of propaganda and infiltration. As Mao Tse-tung once said: "Politics is war without bloodshed. War is politics with bloodshed."

But bloodshed is the least vicious of the Marxist devices. The worst is the destruction of the human mind. This is sometimes called brain - washing, a term which is apt but not sufficiently descriptive of what actually happens to the human mind and spirit. Much of life was materialistic long before Karl Marx was born. We need to eat, to drink, to clothe ourselves, to move from place to place, to provide for a family, and so on.

If one reads Dr. Nelson Glueck's "Rivers in the Desert," he can go back many thousands of years and find that man was then struggling against his physical environment and with what ingenuity he managed to succeed. But something was added. The spiritual appears in man early in his history—that is, a non - physical something, a gossamer invisibility so strong that it binds and holds one as the conscience does. This is the soul of man, the God in man. The existence of the mystical, the spiritual, the Marxist denies.

The Marxist therefore approaches politics, the relations between government and government, with a brutality heretofore unknown to mankind. Even Attila, Genghis Kahn, or any other conqueror only killed physical bodies; Soviet Russia seeks to destroy the minds of men, to deprave their consciences, to brutalize them, to cheapen them, to leave them without dignity.

The very best discussion I have yet seen of this process is a little pamphlet written by Mme. Susanne Labin, a French journalist. Her work is entitled, "The Technique of Soviet Propaganda," and has been issued by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Mme. Labin recognizes and describes the techniques of destroying thought. The basic idea is to fix ideas in the minds of opponents so that they repeat clichés instead of thinking things out. For instance, the use of the term, East - West, instead of the Communist world and the Free world. Another is the twisted definitions given the word, Liberal, which in the 19th Century meant the extension of the rights of man but in the middle of the 20th Century means the expansion of the power of government.

Mme. Labin says this: "Weak or strong, CPs are characterized everywhere by the following specific features:

"1. They are strictly controlled by the Kremlin, whose orders they blindly carry out, whatever zigzags or disavowals that may mean.

"2. They are not organized as parties, but as totalitarian states. They are fanatical, monolithic, intolerant. The top rules and manipulates the bottom, which only serves as a striking force.

"3. Its apparatus, in proportion to its membership, is 50 to 100 times better equipped with material and means of propaganda than that of any other party. Thus a CP has on the average 1 permanent (i.e., a paid activist) for 25 to 50 members, while other parties have 1 per 1,000 or 5,000 members. Its turnover of printed matter — newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, leaflets, posters, home bulletins, books — is also on the average 100 times greater per member than that of any other party, however rich it may be. The same proportion holds true for premises, card files, printing presses, and a still higher one for study groups, party schools, political meetings, protection services, et cetera."

Mme. Labin says that 150,000 persons throughout the world are permanently assigned to this work and that the annual expenditure is half a billion dollars. The Communists are more active today than they have ever been.

Mme. Labin's pamphlet should be circulated by the million because it is complete and current.

"DO I DETECT the odor of liquor on your breath?" a stingy boss demanded of his head bookkeeper. "You do," admitted that cagey individual. "I've just been celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the last raise you gave me."

Alexander Dumas, author of "The Three Musketeers" and "The Count of Monte Cristo," wrote and published 1,200 full-length books in a space of 40 active years. He once turned out 60 novels in 12 months. Of course, he had a corps of ghost-writers and put the production of books on an assembly-line basis—but the plots all were his own. One day he ran into his son (the author of "Camille") and asked, "Have you read my new novel yet?" "No," said the son. "Have you?" Dumas dissipated a great fortune by unbridled extravagance. On his deathbed in 1870, he wryly remarked, "I came to Paris with 20 francs. That is exactly the sum with which I die."

Neck Injury Is Difficult

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Doctors sometimes have to investigate circumstances surrounding an auto accident almost as closely as insurance adjusters do. This is particularly true in the case of neck injuries.

You might think that an accident would bounce a person around so much that his neck would be subjected to all sorts of injuries. Strangely enough, this is usually not the case.

While there may be many fractures of the cervical spine, they are generally all of the same type. Usually the trouble is either flexion injuries or extension injuries, but seldom both.

Flexion injuries are generally caused by a blow at the back of the head which forces the face toward the chest.

Extension injuries are caused by some sort of force applied to the face or forehead.

Now despite this rather limited choice of injuries, cervical spine injuries, resulting from auto accidents, often present a confusing and complex array of symptoms.

This, of course, necessitates extreme care in the handling of an accident victim with any suspected neck injuries. The doctor, as well as those immediately concerned with removing the victim from the wreck, must take extreme care.

The type and extent of the bone injury along does not necessarily tell us the extent of the nerve injury.

To help ascertain this, the doctor must know how the injury occurred. He must try to determine whether the blow came from the front or the back.

It would probably also be helpful if he knew what the victim's head struck or what struck it and with how much force. Even the speeds of the vehicles might be helpful information.

Dr. Joseph E. Whitley of Winston-Salem, N. C., an x-ray specialist, says experience in such cases has shown that the best results usually are obtained when orthographic services are provided the victim.

X-rays, he says, are especially valuable in discovering tears in the ligaments in the back portion of the neck. Without the use of x-rays, such torn ligaments might not be discovered until some time after the accident.

So even doctors employ pictures, of a sort, in investigating accident injuries.

Findlay College Signs Gobin as Grid Coach

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Robert J. Gobin, football line coach and head golf coach at Ohio Northern University in Ada, is the new head football coach and assistant professor of health and physical education at Findlay College.

The appointment, announced by Herbert O. Now, vice president for instruction at Findlay College, is effective immediately.

As head football coach, Gobin succeeds George Hill, who accepted a post at Denison University last month.

Ohio's Attorney General Shuns Politics in Decisions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Mark McElroy is determined to do a job as counsel for Gov. Michael V. DiSalle regardless of where the political chips fall.

McElroy concedes he has been handed some tough assignments but indicates he will stand on the results.

He expects results from a DiSalle-ordered probe of vice and gambling in the Canton area and from the latest request for collection of about a half-billion dollars in overdue accounts for care of patients in state hospitals. Some of the 260,000 files on patients date back to 1900.

Ohio law designates the attorney general as lawyer for the governor and other state officials in legal actions.

McElroy terms the governor's position well taken. He declines comment on speculation that requests based on statute may have cast him in the role of gubernatorial hatchet man with a political albatross around his neck.

The attorney general, a Democrat like DiSalle, expects to stay in politics. He burned his Cleveland law practice bridges behind him to win a four-year term in an almost single-handed campaign against tough odds. Before that he served in the Ohio House and Senate. During World War II was a security intelligence officer.

McElroy figures that only a fifth of the patient-care bills may be collectable from relatives but he expects some will be glad to clean up their accounts. Like DiSalle, he emphasizes that hardships will not be imposed.

The Bureau of Support in the Mental Health Department is charged with the billing of patient care and designation of delinquent accounts for collection.

"On the surface, it looks like terrible carelessness," McElroy said in reviewing the big backlog claims ranging from $100 to $15,000.

He expressed the hope that collections would encourage current payments, when relatives could afford them, to help the state financially. That is needed, he said, because patient files grow at the rate of 13,500 daily.

McElroy is aware that bill collectors and so-called crusaders seldom are popular. But he is pressing for indictments in the Stark County investigation to carry out his assignment.

A special grand jury took over last January after the foreman of a regular grand jury told DiSalle the situation there was out of hand. So far the state has put up $75,000 for the investigation begun last summer.

McElroy said ministers in the Canton area told him the probe has put a lid on illegal operations.

"It may be that the presence of our staff for almost a year is going to break the back of the group carrying on the operations," he speculates. "The citizens there are in back of us."

The attorney general points out that the investigation led to bribery indictments against the mayor or Dover and four others, two of them described as big time operators.

McElroy offers no alibis for the fate of an earlier assignment. That futile action in Lawrence County stemmed from alleged failure to comply with regulations for a building erected by a former state senator. Published comments by DiSalle on the case led to libel suits that also came to naught.

Complaints were heard that advance publicity by the governor on the Lawrence and Stark County activities made them difficult to handle effectively.

McElroy became a recent target in Liquor Department sniping but put up a stout defense. He refused to withdraw an assistant prosecuting permit violators before the liquor board and fired back at claims of foot-dragging in action to padlock bootlegging places.

The attorney general said it was up to Liquor Enforcement Chief

Ivan W. Smith of Canton to get evidence for convictions. "As a lawyer you surely must realize that a mere address is not sufficient to commence a legal action," McElroy told Smith.

And a member of the Liquor Board, under fire for asserted leniency towards permit violators, asserted that the department's enforcement division stinks.

The blast came during a meeting of the board, Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch, Smith and other officials at the call of the governor. DiSalle has advocated transfer of some board powers to the liquor director and division of the enforcement patterned along FBI lines.

Crouch has started action but said it may take the rest of the year to complete such an organization.

Thus a CP has on the average 1 permanent (i.e., a paid activist) for 25 to 50 members, while other parties have 1 per 1,000 or 5,000 members. Its turnout of printed matter—newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, leaflets, posters, home bulletins, books—is also on the average 100 times greater per member than that of any other party, however rich it may be. The same proportion holds true for premises, card files, printing presses, and a still higher one for study groups, party schools, political meetings, protection services, et cetera."

Mme. Labin says that 150,000 persons throughout the world are permanently assigned to this work and that the annual expenditure is half a billion dollars. The Communists are more active today than they have ever been.

Mme. Labin's pamphlet should be circulated by the million because it is complete and current.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"DO I DETECT the odor of liquor on your breath?" a stingy boss demanded of his head bookkeeper. "You do," admitted that cagey individual. "I've just been celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the last raise you gave me."

Alexander Dumas, author of "The Three Musketeers" and "The Count of Monte Cristo," wrote and published 1,200 full-length books in a space of 40 active years. He once turned out 60 novels in 12 months. Of course, he had a corps of ghost-writers and put the production of books on an assembly-line basis—but the plots all were his own. One day he ran into his son (the author of "Camille") and asked, "Have you read my new novel yet?" "No," said the son. "Have you?" Dumas dissipated a great fortune by unbridled extravagance. On his deathbed in 1870, he wryly remarked, "I came to Paris with 20 francs. That is exactly the sum with which I die."

Neck Injury Is Difficult

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Doctors sometimes have to investigate circumstances surrounding an auto accident almost as closely as insurance adjusters do. This is particularly true in the case of neck injuries.

You might think that an accident would bounce a person around so much that his neck would be subjected to all sorts of injuries. Strangely enough, this is usually not the case.

While there may be many fractures of the cervical spine, they are generally all of the same type. Usually the trouble is either flexion injuries or extension injuries, but seldom both.

Flexion injuries are generally caused by a blow at the back of the head which forces the face toward the chest.

Extension injuries are caused by some sort of force applied to the face or forehead.

Now despite this rather limited choice of injuries, cervical spine injuries, resulting from auto accidents, often present a confusing and complex array of symptoms.

This, of course, necessitates extreme care in the handling of an accident victim with any suspected neck injuries. The doctor, as well as those immediately concerned with removing the victim from the wreck, must take extreme care.

The type and extent of the bone injury along does not necessarily tell us the extent of the nerve injury.

To help ascertain this, the doctor must know how the injury occurred. He must try to determine whether the blow came from the front or the back.

It would probably also be helpful if he knew what the victim's head struck or what struck it and with how much force. Even the speeds of the vehicles might be helpful information.

Dr. Joseph E. Whitley of Winston-Salem, N. C., an x-ray specialist, says experience in such cases has shown that the best results usually are obtained when orthographic services are provided the victim.

X-rays, he says, are especially valuable in discovering tears in the ligaments in the back portion of the neck. Without the use of x-rays, such torn ligaments might not be discovered until some time after the accident.

So even doctors employ pictures, of a sort, in investigating accident injuries.

Question and Answer
J. H. B.: I am 68 years old and for many years took a tablespoon of cod liver oil each day to prevent colds. I have been told this is not good for a person of my age. May I have your opinion?

Answer: Keep up the cod liver oil. It will do you no harm.

Findlay College Signs Gobin as Grid Coach

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Robert J. Gobin, football line coach and head golf coach at Ohio Northern University in Ada, is the new head football coach and assistant professor of health and physical education at Findlay College.

The appointment, announced by Herbert O. Now, vice president for instruction at Findlay College, is effective immediately.

As head football coach, Gobin succeeds George Hill, who accepted a post at Denison University last month.

Ohio's Attorney General Shuns Politics in Decisions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Mark McElroy is determined to do a job as counsel for Gov. Michael V. DiSalle regardless of where the political chips fall.

McElroy concedes he has been handed some tough assignments but indicates he will stand on the results.

He expects results from a DiSalle-ordered probe of vice and gambling in the Canton area and from the latest request for collection of about a half-billion dollars in overdue accounts for care of patients in state hospitals. Some of the 260,000 files on patients date back to 1900.

Ohio law designates the attorney general as lawyer for the governor and other state officials in legal actions.

McElroy terms the governor's position well taken. He declines comment on speculation that requests based on statute may have cast him in the role of gubernatorial hatchet man with a political albatross around his neck.

The attorney general, a Democrat like DiSalle, expects to stay in politics. He burned his Cleveland law practice bridges behind him to win a four-year term in an almost single handed campaign against tough odds. Before that he served in the Ohio House and Senate. During World War II he was a security intelligence officer.

McElroy figures that only a fifth of the patient-care bills may be collectable from relatives but he expects some will be glad to clean up their accounts. Like DiSalle, he emphasizes that hardships will not be imposed.

The Bureau of Support in the Mental Health Department is charged with the billing of patient care and designation of delinquent accounts for collection.

"On the surface, it looks like terrible carelessness," McElroy said in reviewing the big backlog claims ranging from $100 to $15,000.

He expressed the hope that collections would encourage current payments, when relatives could afford them, to help the state financially. That is needed, he said, because patient files grow at the rate of 13,500 daily.

McElroy is aware that bill collectors and so-called crusaders seldom are popular. But he is pressing for indictments in the Stark County investigation to carry out his assignment.

A special grand jury took over last January after the foreman of a regular grand jury told DiSalle the situation there was out of hand. So far the state has put up $75,000 for the investigation begun last summer.

McElroy said ministers in the Canton area told him the probe has put a lid on illegal operations.

"It may be that the presence of our staff for almost a year is going to break the back of the group carrying on the operations," he speculates. "The citizens there are in back of us."

The attorney general points out that the investigation led to bribery indictments against the mayor or Dover and four others, two of them described as big time operators.

McElroy offers no alibi for the fate of an earlier assignment. That futile action in Lawrence County stemmed from alleged failure to comply with regulations for a building erected by a former state senator. Published comments by DiSalle on the case led to libel suits that also came to naught.

Complaints were heard that advance publicity by the governor on the Lawrence and Stark County activities made them difficult to handle effectively.

McElroy became a recent target in Liquor Department sniping but put up a stout defense. He refused to withdraw an assistant prosecuting permit violators before the liquor board and fired back at claims of foot-dragging in action to padlock bootlegging places.

The attorney general said it was up to Liquor Enforcement Chief

Ivan W. Smith of Canton to get evidence for convictions. "As a lawyer you surely must realize that a mere address is not sufficient to commence a legal action," McElroy told Smith.

And a member of the Liquor Board, under fire for asserted leniency towards permit violators, asserted that the department's enforcement division stinks.

The blast came during a meeting of the board, Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch, Smith and other officials at the call of the governor. DiSalle has advocated transfer of some board powers to the liquor director and division of the enforcement patterned along FBI lines.

Crouch has started action but said it may take the rest of the year to complete such an organization.

'What Is Man' To Be Sermon Topic at First Baptist Church

"What Is Man?" has been chosen by the Rev. Paul White for his sermon subject tomorrow morning in the First Baptist Church. Psalms 8 is the scripture to be used in the message.

Congregational hymns will be, "Rise Up, O Men of God", "I Gave My Life for Thee" and "I'll Live for Him". Hal Spencer will direct the song service.

"Revival Fires" is the subject for the evening Worship Service at 7:30 p. m. Baptist Training Union will precede the worship service at 6:30 p. m.

Presbyterian

"A Lenten Look at Our Lord's Prayer" is the continuing theme at the Presbyterian Church as we approach Easter. Each Sunday one of the six petitions of the Prayer is given thorough study and attention as to what was in the mind of Jesus at the time, and the intent and purpose for us in our time as compared with His day.

At the 10:30 a. m. hour of worship tomorrow morning the theme will be based upon the fourth petition. It is, "Give Us This Day". Mr. Mitchell will read the Scripture from the gospel of St. Luke, chapter 10.

The choir with Mrs. Clark will direct, will sing the anthem, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" by O'Hara. Hymns will include the lenten hymn, "Lord Who Throughout These Forty Days," "Jesus Thou Joy of Loving Hearts," "O Word of God Incarnate".

At the organ Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play; Larson's "Lenten Prelude"; Austin's "By Waters still"; and "Benedictus" by Karg-Elert.

In the afternoon the catechism class will meet with the pastor in the Session room from 2 - 3 p. m. The Westminster Fellowship will meet in the chapel for devotions led by Bob Bowers and Bruce Lindsey. The refreshments will be served by Judy Riethmiller and Jack Mader.

St. Philips

The men of St. Philip's parish will attend their monthly corporate Communion at 8 a. m. tomorrow, the fourth Sunday in Lent. Following the celebration of the Holy Communion, they will meet in the parish house for breakfast which will be in charge of William W. Weldon. Acolytes serving at the early service will be Billy Weldon and John Wright.

The Rev. William G. Huber will preach at the 10 a. m. service of Morning Prayer. Robert Hutzelman will be layreader, reading the First Lesson and leading the congregation in the responsive reading of the Psalm for the Day. Acolytes serving at 10 a. m. will be Tom Wright, Mike Melson and Douglas Thompson with Chip Harrod in charge.

The Girls' Choir, under the direction of Miss Lois Wittich, will sing "There is a Green Hill" an arrangement by Healy Willan.

Hymns to be sung by the congregation and choir will include: "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds," "Glory be to Jesus;" and "He Leadeth Me." The organ music to be used in the service will include "Our Father Who art in Heaven" by Francis Snow and an "Ain" by Heermans.

At 8 p. m. tomorrow, a meeting of the Couples Bible discussion group will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Speakman 112 Reber Ave. The Rev. Mr. Huber will lead the discussion based on the Book of Acts translated by J. B. Phillips.

ing the worship hour. Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p. m. Evangelistic Services will begin at 7:30 p. m. with a quartet from the Long Run EUB Church, Portsmouth, in charge.

Church of Christ

"Sound Doctrine" will be the message at the 10:30 a. m. Worship Service at the Church of Christ. Jack Rankin, minister, will use Titus 2:1 for the text.

"But speak thou the things which befit the sound doctrine." "Sound doctrine will effect uncorruptness and gravity in the lives of people. It will convict the gainsayer, and will reprove the spiritual delinquent. This good doctrine will encourage the fainthearted in the right direction towards God. We should know, love, and practice it every day as we dwell among men. The qualities of this doctrine are manifold.

Come and study with us to see it as a going, doing, and teaching doctrine that is dedicated to the conversion of all men.

It is not characterized by lethargy and indifference, nor is its main line of approach a negative one. It will bring good spiritual health to you if you obey while there is still opportunity.

Trinity Lutheran

Duplicate worship services in Trinity Lutheran Church this Sunday will be held at 8:30 and 10:45 a. m.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner will present the sermon, "While He May Be Found" based on Isaiah 55:6-7.

The Spell of a Story

Think back, grown-up! There haven't been many joys in life that compare to the thrill of being read to. Remember—we came to know most of those stories by heart—and we loved them more each time we heard them.

Robin Hood and Little John—King Arthur and Sir Launcelot—they became old friends. And the heroes of our Bible stories—David and Daniel and the Boy Jesus in the Temple—they lived before our eyes as though the centuries had melted away.

Those stories helped to mold our lives. They taught us courage and faith. We sought to be like the heroes we loved.

Today, grown-up, your child needs the right stories. Are you taking advantage of the Church's program of religious education for youth? Are you giving your youngster the best start in life by making yours a worshipping, a church-supporting home?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Church of Christ

"Sound Doctrine" will be the message at the 10:30 a. m. Worship Service at the Church of Christ. Jack Rankin, minister, will use Titus 2:1 for the text.

"But speak thou the things which befit the sound doctrine. Sound doctrine will effect uncorruptness and gravity in the lives of people. It will convict the gainsayer, and will reprove the spiritual delinquent. This good doctrine will encourage the fainthearted in the right direction towards God. We should know, love, and practice it every day as we dwell among men. The qualities of this doctrine are manifold.

Come and study with us to see it as a going, doing, and teaching doctrine that is dedicated to the conversion of all men.

It is not characterized by lethargy and indifference, nor is its main line of approach a negative one. It will bring good spiritual health to you if you obey while there is still opportunity.

Trinity Lutheran

Duplicate worship services in Trinity Lutheran Church this Sunday will be held at 8:30 and 10:45 a. m.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner will present the sermon, "While He May Be Found" based on Isaiah 55:6-7.

The Youth Choir under the direction of Clifford Kerns will lead the singing at the early service and the late service the singing will be led by the Adult Choir under the direction of Mr. Fred Hebbeler.

Mrs. Karl Herrmann will preside at the organ at both services.

Sunday School will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m.

The nursery will be open during the late service tomorrow and also during Wednesday night Lenten Services.

The Spell of a Story

Think back, grown-up! There haven't been many joys in life that compare to the thrill of being read to. Remember—we came to know most of those stories by heart—and we loved them more each time we heard them.

Robin Hood and Little John—King Arthur and Sir Launcelot—they became old friends. And the heroes of our Bible stories—David and Daniel and the Boy Jesus in the Temple—they lived before our eyes as though the centuries had melted away.

Those stories helped to mold our lives. They taught us courage and faith. We sought to be like the heroes we loved.

Today, grown-up, your child needs the right stories. Are you taking advantage of the Church's program of religious education for youth? Are you giving your youngster the best start in life by making yours a worshipping, a church-supporting home?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Kingston News Report By Miss Margaret Thomas Phone NI 2-3495

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis entertained with a dinner on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hatcher and Miss Mary Harpster. The occasion was to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Hatcher which was on March 19.

Mrs. Elizabeth Meadows and Mrs. John Cobb had as their house guest the past week, their sister, Mrs. Hazel Mackey from Vanceburg, Ky.

The Mayor and Council have proclaimed this week as "Scholarship Week". Cans in which contributions may be put have been placed in many of the business places, and the 4-H girls will be on the street Saturday, with tags, soliciting our contributions.

The money is to be used to help make it possible for some worthy high school graduate to attend college. The Civic Club is backing the scholarship drive and contributions have been made by the Kingston Bank, local organizations, and many private citizens.

THE KINGSTON Parent-Teacher Assn. met at the high school building Tuesday with the president Marvin Mitchell presiding.

During the business session, it was voted to give $50 to the Scholarship Fund.

The speaker was Mrs. Cameron Kepler of Dayton who is paid by the Parent Teacher Organization. Her subject was "How Home Life Affects the School Child."

The refreshment committee with Mrs. Wilbert Musser served a dessert course at the close of the meeting.

The April meeting will be an exhibit of the work done by the different departments during the year.

On Wednesday afternoon the Kingston Branch of the Adena Chapter of the National Honor Society held its annual Tapping Service in the high school auditorium.

The program was in charge of two active members Judy Hill and George Targee. They were assisted by the following graduate members: Marilyn Davis, Janice DeLong Duve, Rita Harper, Alice Lou Hill, Sue Hill, and Connie Lauerman Shaw. These members wore purple and gold caps and gowns, purple and gold being the society colors. Their motto is: "Light is the Symbol of Truth".

The four cardinal principals are Scholarship, Character, Service, and Leadership. Eligibility to membership is determined by these qualities.

Fourteen girls served as Honor Guard, all dressed in white, with an armful of yellow carnations. They put on some excellent drill work.

THE PROGRAM was as follows: Processional, "Holy, Holy, Holy" — Honor Society members and Guard;

Invocation, The Rev. Henry Hammond;

Convention Wives Have Fun Now

By MARY CAMPBELL
CHICAGO (AP) —The day when Pop left Mom at home while he whopped it up at a convention is fading fast.

Nowadays he works hard at a convention and he brings along his wife who has a lot of fun.

Making sure the little woman has the best time possible in Chicago while her husband listens to speeches is the job of Miss Josephine Mutter.

She operates a one-woman business dedicated "to providing a program for the women which I would like were I the wife of a visiting postmaster."

Miss Mutter mentions postmasters because, in arranging for their convention in Chicago several years ago, they were the first to ask, "What do you have planned for the girls?"

A hotel gave her the job of entertaining the postmasters' wives and from then on, in letters soliciting conventions, the hotel advertised itself as the only one in Chicago with a woman on the staff to direct entertainment for the ladies.

For the last 14 years, Miss Mutter has been on her own, taking care of distaff groups in all Chicago convention hotels.

A typical schedule for a three or four-day convention where the ladies are under Miss Mutter's direction would include a sightseeing tour of Chicago or a yacht ride on Lake Michigan, a fashion show, a tea, a matinee and lots of time for shopping.

Breakfasts are late, letting the wife nap after her husband has left for his first meeting, and luncheon menus are all planned by Miss Mutter. She counts calories, mindful of banquets on the convention schedule.

Miss Mutter always sees that a matronly model appears in the fashion shows, provides a map of the shopping areas and has tickets to radio and television programs. She often is called on to provide corsages and favors for the women.

While she admits one Washington association hired her, as they put it, "to keep the gals out of our

Check Whole Orchard, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago I was introduced to a man, 39, who was divorced and had a 13-year-old son. In a few weeks we were engaged. I found out later that he was told that I was a very rich girl (FALSE) and that I could set him up in business.

I didn't hear a word from him for a week and he lives right here in town, so I called him. His mother answered the phone. She told me that he had changed his mind about marrying me because they found out I had no money. I was dumbfounded! Shortly afterwards, my boyfriend called me and told me not to listen to his mother, and in spite of what she had said, he loved me and wanted to marry me. The marriage plans are half-made. Should I go through with this wedding?

Check Whole Orchard, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago I was introduced to a man, 39, who was divorced and had a 13-year-old son. In a few weeks we were engaged. I found out later that he was told that I was a very rich girl (FALSE) and that I could set him up in business.

I didn't hear a word from him for a week and he lives right here in town, so I called him. His mother answered the phone. She told me that he had changed his mind about marrying me because they found out I had no money. I was dumbfounded! Shortly afterwards, my boyfriend called me and told me not to listen to his mother, and in spite of what she had said, he loved me and wanted to marry me. The marriage plans are half-made. Should I go through with this wedding?

NAMELESS
DEAR NAMELESS: The apple usually doesn't fall far from the tree. If I were you I'd put off the wedding until I looked over the whole orchard very, very carefully.

DEAR ABBY: About twice a month the kids in our group go to a movie. We are all 13 and 14 and have to pay $1.20 or else lie about our ages so we can get in for 25c. Most of us guys are tall so we always have the same boy get all the tickets as he is small. I would like to know if you think it is fair for us to go in this way.

YOUNG ADULT
DEAR YOUNG ADULT: Don't rationalize. Lying—whether it's about your age or anything else—is lying. Pay the adult admission and be a man, my son.

hair," Miss Mutter sees her job as more than that. "I like women and I like service," she says. "And that's why I enjoy my work."

DEAR ABBY: My husband shouts back at the television. If there is something or someone he doesn't like, he curses at the top of his voice. Abby, we live in a project and the walls are thin and I am ashamed to face my neighbors in the morning for fear they might think my husband has been yelling at me like that. What should I do?

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Tell your sad tale of woe to the biggest blabber-mouth in the neighborhood. Then sit back and let HER solve your problem.

Chips Down Today in Ohio High School Cage Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 38th annual scholastic cage classic, already off to a roaring start, could wind up in sensational fashion today.

The Class AA finale scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight, pits top-ranked Dayton Roosevelt against powerful Cleveland East Tech, a team bidding for a third straight championship.

In the smaller school title tilt, third-ranked Salem Local of Urbana tangles with unheralded Frazeyburg at 2 p.m.

Veteran court observers, left slightly limp from Friday's heroics, were predicting championships for East Tech and Salem Local.

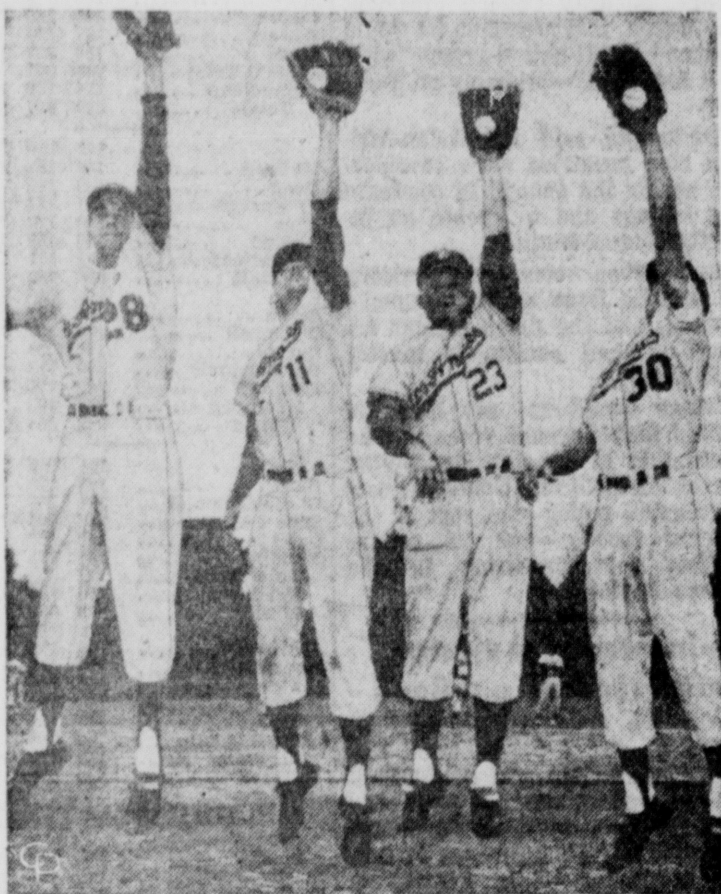

The Scarabs from Cleveland literally smashed Canton Timken in a semifinal affair Friday night, 71-60, while Dayton needed a fourth quarter rally to dispose of Toledo Scott, 62-58.

In afternoon action, Frazeyburg had little difficulty eliminating New Bremen, 64-51, and Salem broke away in the second half to down New Boston, 67-59, in a battle of unbeaten giants.

Dayton has Johnny Woolums and Ray Brown, the Class AA coach of the year and the AA player of the year, respectively. But the Teddies will have to play at the peak of their game to capture their first title since 1934.

Tech, with four players scoring in double figures, rushed to a 23-4 lead and was never headed. The Scarabs held a tremendous 58-25 rebound advantage over a game

Benhase Lists Information On Local Football Chapter

Carl K. Benhase, head grid coach at Circleville High School, has announced information concerning the proposed Pickaway County Chapter, National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Benhase, chairman of the planned chapter here, said the main objective is to promote participation in organized football and to encourage flag football in the elementary grades in order to develop interest in the game.

Citing justification for the sport, Coach Benhase said statistics prove that fewer participants in organized football become juvenile delinquents than from any other sport, along with many other advantages.

Hawks, Lakers Clash Today In Finale

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks collide with the underdog Minneapolis Lakers today in the deciding game of the bitterly contested Western Division playoffs of the National Basketball Assn., amid assurances that Hawk Coach Ed Macauley will be replaced regardless of the outcome.

Hawk owner Ben Kerner strongly denied he plans any coaching change but The Associated Press learned Friday night from an authoritative source that Macauley will be replaced by Paul Seymour sometime after the Hawks complete playoff action.

The source said Macauley will announce his resignation as coach but will be retained as a vice president and general manager in the last year of a three-year contract.

Seymour, 31, recently resigned after four successful years as coach of the Syracuse Nationals, three as player-coach.

The finale of the bruising series will be played at Washington University fieldhouse and will be nationally televised (2 p.m. EST). Macauley, denying that Kerner has asked him to step down, asserted he was too busy planning for the game to worry about the report he will be replaced.

The Hawks Big Three—erratic in the first three games—clicked for 88 points in a 117-96 victory Thursday which squared the best-of-seven series at 3-3. Bob Pettit hit 30, Cliff Hagan and Clyde Lovellette 29 each.

EACH COUNTY is expected to have an annual banquet to present awards to outstanding county players. Awards and speakers are jointly provided by the Foundation and the county chapter.

Benhase said 10 members are needed to start a chapter. The headquarters and Hall of Fame Museum are at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J.

Miller Pontious, noted Pickaway County and former All-American footballer, is a member of the National Foundation Board of Directors.

The local grid coach said any citizen may become a member of this cause devoted to the building young Americans. Membership information may be obtained by phoning Benhase at GR 4-2437 or contacting him at Circleville High School.

6 Cincy Boxers Win AAU Laurels

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Whaley headed six Cincinnati amateurs who hammered out finals victories Friday night in the Ohio AAU boxing championships.

Whaley, national AAU bantamweight champion in 1956, knocked out Gallipolis' Clyde Tyler in the first round of the semifinals, then came back to score a technical knockout over Tom Mix of Toledo in 35 seconds of the first round in the finals.

The 10 winners Friday night qualify for the national AAU finals April 7-9 in Toledo.

In Class A, Salem Local showed a potent one-two scoring punch in Al Thrasher and Steve McCullough, and appear to be too classy for Frazeyburg.

Here are some capsule comments of the eight coaches involved in Friday's semifinals:

Myron Cline, Frazeyburg — "I don't care how big they come my kids have a lot of heart—look out tomorrow (Saturday)."

Bill Hupp, Salem Local—"We'll use everything we have to win the championship. After all, there is enough incentive."

Homer Pellegrino, New Boston — "Salem is the best club we've played in several years and that Thrasher and McCullough are the best I've seen this year."

Jerry Schacht, New Bremen—"We never got any breaks. I hope Frazeyburg goes all the way. That way we can say we lost to the champs."

Joe Howell, Cleveland East Tech—"I have nothing but terrific respect for Dayton. It will take an extreme effort by all of us to win."

John Woolums, Dayton Roosevelt—"Our game against Toledo Scott was our poorest of the season. I think we can beat Tech. We're bound to play a good game after two bad ones."

Andy Kandik, Toledo Scott—"The boys were strictly individuals and lacked teamwork. What made it worse we couldn't hit the basket. Dayton is not that good a ball club."

Ken Kate, Canton Timken — "That first quarter killed us. We did nothing right. We shot from too far out and by the time we got organized, it was too late. It will take a team with good size and good shooting to beat East Tech."

Goering bested Charlie Garza in two out of three falls. Krauser took the measure of Ali Pasha with two straight falls.

The Masked Destroyer took a decision when "Sweet Daddy" Siki failed to return to the ring after sailing over the ropes in an attempt to flatten his opponent with a flying leap.

Siki and the Destroyer, two arch rivals, each had gained a fall before "Sweet Daddy" bounced on the floor several feet below the ring. The popular Jamaican failed to return on the referee's count of 20.

GOERING, German champion, had little trouble disposing of Garza. Garza filled in for Tony Bailargeon who was injured in a bout earlier in the week.

Krauser, European champion, made short work of the cunning Pasha. The young German was in command most of the way.

Approximately 700 fans witnessed last night's program, sponsored by the Circleville Booster Club and the Pickaway County Agriculture Society's committee for a new grandstand.

According to Promoter George Bruckman, another mat card is scheduled here April 22. This program will feature either a tag-team match or lady wrestlers.

Chisox, Bucs Now Leading Spring Preps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's time to starting taking those exhibition baseball standings seriously. The Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates are on top because they both have the one-run, extra-inning winning habit.

That's why the White Sox won the American League pennant last year and that's why the Pirates could have won the National if they hadn't picked up the bad habit of losing on the road.

Both scored one-run victories Friday. The Pirates record to 9-3 with a 9-8 triumph over Washington at Orlando. It was the Pirates' ninth straight victory.

The White Sox, atop the AL with a 9-4 mark, beat Kansas City 6-5 in 13 innings at Sarasota. The Sox have won three of four one-run games. The Pirates also have lost only one of four one-run games.

Sure, it's all in spring training, but you just can't kiss off those figures when you consider the Pirates led the majors last season with 36 one-run victories. And that the White Sox had the best one-run percentage (.700 on 35 and 15). Pittsburgh dropped 19 by one run.

The Chicago Cubs also turned in a one-run victory 4-3, over the Boston Red Sox at Scottsdale, but the other Arizona game was a one-sided show. The San Francisco Giants laced the Cleveland Indians 14-1 at Phoenix.

In other Florida action, the New York Yankees blanked the Milwaukee Braves 4-0 at Bradenton, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-3 at St. Petersburg, the Philadelphia Phillies took the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland 8-2 in 13 innings and at Miami in a night game Baltimore beat Los Angeles 3-1.

Giants Tighten Their Front Line

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—"I think our front line club is as good as any," declares Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants, a man on the baseball spot for 1960.

He points out two factors for improvement over 1959 when the club led the National League most of the way only to finish third.

First, the acquisition of second baseman Don Blasingame, a proven leadoff man, and two pitchers, Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes.

Second, the added year's experience for the younger Giants.

After the 1959 skid, Rigney was rehired but this time received only a one-year contract where he had a pair of two-year pacts previously.

Three Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—plus Orlando Cepeda provide batting power and with the addition of O'Dell and Loes, the iron-man pitching stints of last season won't be needed.

Right now Rigney hopes he can use Johnny Antonelli, Sam Jones, Jack Sanford and Mike McCormick exclusively as starters. Stu Miller and Loes are counted on for relief shores.

Rigney figures to carry 10 pitchers and the above seven spots are clinched. There's a fight on for the other three with such candidates as the veterans Al Worthington and Bud Byerly, rookie Georges Moranda and Eddie Fisher who was promoted to the varsity during last season.

Right now you can write down the Giants' batting order and count on it to change very little. Blasingame leads off and plays second base. Following are Jimmy Davenport at third, Mays in center, McCovey at first, Cepeda in left field, Kirkland or Felipe Alou in right, Eddie Bressoud at shortstop and Hobie Landrith catching.

On April 12, the Giants open in their new Candlestick Park home, a spacious layout that should give

Giants Tighten Their Front Line

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—"I think our front line club is as good as any," declares Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants, a man on the baseball spot for 1960.

He points out two factors for improvement over 1959 when the club led the National League most of the way only to finish third.

First, the acquisition of second baseman Don Blasingame, a proven leadoff man, and two pitchers, Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes.

Second, the added year's experience for the younger Giants.

After the 1959 skid, Rigney was rehired but this time received only a one-year contract where he had a pair of two-year pacts previously.

Three Willes—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—plus Orlando Cepeda provide batting power and with the addition of O'Dell and Loes, the iron-man pitching stints of last season won't be needed.

Right now Rigney hopes he can use Johnny Antonelli, Sam Jones, Jack Sanford and Mike McCormick exclusively as starters. Stu Miller and Loes are counted on for relief shores.

Rigney figures to carry 10 pitchers and the above seven spots are clinched. There's a fight on for the other three with such candidates as the veterans Al Worthington and Bud Beyerly, rookie Georges Maranda and Eddie Fisher who was promoted to the varsity during last season.

Right now you can write down the Giants' batting order and count on it to change very little. Blasingame leads off and plays second base. Following are Jim Mays, Davenport at third, Mays in center, McCovey at first, Cepeda in left field, Kirkland or Felipe Alou in right, Eddie Bressoud at shortstop and Hobie Landrith catching.

On April 12, the Giants open in their new Candlestick Park home, a spacious layout that should give

Local Official Calls State Tilt

George Hamrick, 1952 Lynwood Ave., was one of the officials in last night's Class AA state tournament cage game between Dayton Roosevelt and Toledo Scott.

Hamrick, Pickaway County agriculture extension agent, has worked in either Class AA or Class A state tournament games for the last three years.

The veteran official also works football games during the grid season.

Dayton Roosevelt won last night's game, 62-58, to notch a berth in today's final game with Cleveland East Tech, a 71-50 winner over Canton Timken yesterday.

All but two of the 19 members of the North Carolina State basketball team are from North Carolina.

Christianity in Red China Likened to Old Roman Days

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

The dismal state of the tiny Christian community in Communist China has often been likened to the plight of the church during the persecutions of Roman Emperor Diocletian.

It's an apt comparison.

The sentencing of Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh, accused of conspiring to overthrow the Communist regime, points up Christianity's desperate state. He's one of the last foreign missionaries left in China.

Catholic sources in the United States list three foreign missionaries in addition to Bishop Walsh as remaining on the Chinese mainland. Before the Red takeover, there were more than 5,000.

Two of the remaining missionaries are Koreans. They are identified only as Fathers Kim and Yoo. They were last heard from more than a year ago. Apparently they are in jail.

The other is a German priest, the Rev. Peter Hunsberg, who, says a Catholic spokesman, apparently has gone over to the Communists. At last reports, he was working as a German translator in Peiping.

Protestant missionaries have fared as poorly.

At the end of 1949, says the Missionary Research Library of the Union Theological Seminary, there were about 2,000 American Protestant missionary workers active in China. Today there are none.

Between 1948 and 1950, says a church spokesman, a total of 510 American Catholic missionaries were expelled, a number of them after periods in prison or under house arrest.

Even more trying for the Catholic church was the formation in 1954 of the Patriotic Assn. of Chinese Catholics, which amounts to a Catholic church independent of the Vatican.

A papal encyclical issued in 1958 describes it as aimed "at making Catholics embrace the tenets of atheistic materialism by which God himself is denied and principles of religion rejected."

The Communist church, regarded by the Vatican as schismatic, has consecrated more than 30 Chinese bishops whose orders are "valid but unlawful" in the Vatican's view.

This means they have a bishop's powers but are not allowed to use them.

The Catholic Church, however, maintains that most of the 3,300,000 Chinese Catholics counted in 1949 remain loyal to Rome.

Will Christianity ever return in strength to the Chinese mainland "Only when the Chinese Communists are overthrown," says the Rev. Francis De Masi, one of the Maryknoll missionaries now on Formosa.

Tony Curtis Dips into TV; Reason Connected with Cash

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When a film star like Tony Curtis dips into television, there must be an angle. Curtis can draw top money from any film producer in town, so what does he need with TV? Oddly enough, the answer has to do with money.

The energetic, greying (at 34) actor will appear next Tuesday night on the Startime show over NBC. It's a medieval costume epic called "The Young Juggler" until Columbia protested that it had a Kirk Douglas movie of that title.

"Why did I do a hour-long TV film?" Curtis said. "Because after the first showing, the rights to the show revert to me. I intend to show it in theaters overseas as a feature picture. I might even do it in this country."

Why not? In these times of product shortage, theater men will welcome any movies, especially with the Tony Curtis name. So what if it did show on TV first? Walt Disney displayed his Davy Crockett three-partter twice on TV, then released it as a feature to theaters and still made a healthy profit.

"We made 'The Young Juggler' for $200,000," said Curtis, "but it has the look of an expensive picture. We shot it in color and used all the big standing sets at Universal. I know where all the good sets are, having worked on them."

"The show runs 51 minutes, but we can add to it with footage that was cut out. Also I plan to go back and film four additional scenes. That will bring it up to feature length."

Could this become a habit—making movies first for TV, then the theaters, instead of vice versa?

"I don't think so," said Curtis. "We did our picture in 10 days. It was scheduled for five days, but that was impossible. Even in 10 days, we had to keep moving like crazy."

"You can't make movies that way. Good movies take time and care and study."

Norman E. Kutler, local Rexall pharmacist, recently attended the Central Academy of Pharmacy meetings in Columbus. The main subject covered problems of pharmacy in the distribution of medicines to the public. Another topic was the coming change in the Ohio Aid for Aged Division program for the filling of prescriptions.

Ben B. Dunlany, Norfolk and Western public relations representative, has been named manager of news and community services in the railway's public relations and advertising department. It is a new position.

Before coming to the N&W in June, 1947, Dunlany had 13 years of newspaper and public relations experience. A native of Washington, D. C., he received B. S. and M. S. degrees from the University of Virginia before joining the Richmond News Leader in 1934 as a reporter and editorial writer. The next year he shifted to the Washington Post where he became daily city editor in 1936 and sports editor in 1939.

In 1942-43 he worked as assistant foreign news editor of the Office of War Information, and in 1943-45 he was a Washington correspondent for Time Magazine. He then moved to the U. S. Department of Justice where he was assistant, later acting director of public information.

fer a moratorium of one year but if necessary might agree to two years. Macmillan has been described as favoring two years.

2. During the moratorium of one or two years, the Soviet Union would have to join with the United States and Britain in intensive scientific research on development of a detection system which would be effective in discovering any cheating against the ban on small weapons explosions. It was the lack of an effective detection system which caused Eisenhower in February to propose to Britain and the Soviet Union that only the larger underground explosions and those in the water and air which are more easily detectable, be prohibited by formal treaty.

3. International inspectors stationed in each country under the proposed treaty would be empowered to investigate suspicion of even small underground explosions in defiance of the moratorium—even though these were not covered in the treaty.

4. If at the end of one year, or possibly two, there was no real progress in the development of a fully effective inspection system for small underground explosions, then each of the powers should have the right to review its position under the moratorium and determine whether the arrangement should be continued.

The compromise agreement worked out within the administration apparently means that the President decided that the United States could risk delaying a resumption of tests for at least a year beyond next fall.

Many top officials are fearful that the Soviet Union with its nationwide system of secrecy, would have opportunities to possibly get ahead of the United States in nuclear weapons development.

Revival Services

At Church of God

Revival Services will begin at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Church of God, Route 22, one mile west of Circleville.

The Rev. Douglas Jacobs, Chattanooga, Tenn., will be guest evangelist. At the end of the November revival with the Rev. Jacobs, 19 persons joined the church.

Services will be held every night during the next two weeks except Monday evening when the local church will participate with the Churches of God, Columbus, at a District Fellowship Service in Lancaster.

The Rev. R. J. Varnell extends an invitation to the public to help worship together in this great effort to win the loss of Christ.

Canada is made up of 12 provinces.

Local Women To Attend GOP Conference

Three women prominent in the Pickaway County Republican Party will join the record-breaking number of Ohioans who will trek to Washington, D. C., for eighth annual GOP Women's National Conference April 2 through 5.

They are Mrs. J. B. Work, 150 Watt St.; Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, Route 1, Lockbourne, and Mrs. Ethel Siegel, Ashville.

Mrs. Margaret Gladwell, Columbus, executive secretary of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organization, who is serving as Ohio Chairman for the conference, said the total probably would exceed 250. It will be the largest Buckeye delegation ever to attend the meeting.

She pointed out that Ohio has had the largest state delegation at the conference each of the past four years.

MRS. KATHARINE Kennedy Brown, Dayton, President of the Ohio Federation and Republican National Committeewoman for Ohio, will be a panelist during the conference sessions. She will speak on "Urban Organization". She also will represent Ohio in a pageant which will commemorate the 40th anniversary of women's suffrage.

One highlight of the conference will be the "Jumbo Jamboree" at Washington's Uline Arena Monday evening, April 4. Featured speaker at the gigantic rally will be President Eisenhower. He will be introduced by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The President's address will follow a rousing campaign show produced by Broadcast Music, Inc. of New York. Master of ceremonies, Sammy Kaye, and his orchestra will be teamed with gospel singer Mahalia Jackson, television comic, Sam Levanon, and Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters. The Ralph Hunter Choir will present two numbers from the hit Broadway musical "Fiorello".

Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky and Mrs. Clare B. Williams, chairman and assistant chairman, respectively, of the Republican National Committee, also will address the rally.

The Ohio delegation will hold a luncheon in the East Room of the Mayflower Hotel on April 3 at 12:30 p. m. The delegation's headquarters in Washington will be the Sheraton Park Hotel.

Mrs. H. B. Lightie, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H. Thursday after she fell down a flight of steps.

Ralph Seif, Mt. Sterling, has been dismissed from Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H. following medical treatment.

Fred Woods, New Holland has been dismissed from Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H. following medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Miller (Hope Evans) Hallsville, are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday in Chillicothe Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chamberlain, Mt. Sterling, have received word of the birth of a grandson in the Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Anders, Washington C. H.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Snow began before Friday midnight over Ohio, accumulating 1.2 inches at Columbus. Other amounts over the state were an inch or less.

Cloudiness held temperatures to the 20s during the night. The snow area which was over Ohio Friday night and this morning is forecast to move eastward into Pennsylvania today and Ohio skies will tend to clear by afternoon.

Temperatures will reach the middle and upper 30s today as some sunshine breaks through.

Under clear skies tonight, temperatures will again drop into the low 20s south and the teens north. Sunday's outlook is for mostly cloudy skies and little change in temperature.

4 Area Schools Participating In Mock Political Convention

Four area Schools are attending the Mock Democratic Political Convention being staged at Capital University, Bexley, today.

They are Walnut Twp., Ashville, Amanda and Circleville. Walnut pupils taking part in the Democratic Convention today include Dave Weaver, George Forson, Eugene Horsley, Lloyd Davidson and chairman, Andy Duval.

Glenn LaRue, Boyd Boone, Ruth Tipton, Jim Reese, Carol Harber and chairman, Gary Hoover, will attend the Republican Convention next Saturday.

Convention alternates are Raymond White and Ted McFarland. Convention preparations were made under the supervision of Paul Reiss, Walnut social studies teacher.

IN ADDITION to Ashville and Walnut participating in the convention are students from Amanda and Circleville High Schools.

Mock Political Conventions, anticipating the active national presidential conventions to be held this summer in Los Angeles and Chicago, were slated to start today by the Political Science Department of Capital University.

The Capital Conventions are unique because the "State" delegates are made up of high school students representing city, parochial and county schools throughout the state.

Approximately 1,400 students representing 54 Ohio high schools are expected to participate in these conventions.

The conventions are run entirely by the students. Each high school is assigned a state and is entitled to send one half the number of delegates that the state actually sends to the national convention. The students draw up their own platforms and nominate nationally prominent candidates.

Other features of the Mock Conventions, patterned after the National Conventions, are state caucuses, demonstrations for nominees, final balloting of the states and nomination of the vice-president. Prominent government leaders deliver the keynote address at their respective conventions.

THE PURPOSES of the Mock Conventions are to teach the procedure and machinery of conventions to the delegates, to stimulate political thought among the voters of tomorrow and to create a strong and active interest in important issues among high school students.

Two of these Mock Political Conventions have previously been

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Snow began before Friday midnight over Ohio, accumulating 1.2 inches at Columbus. Other amounts over the state were an inch or less.

Cloudiness held temperatures to the 20s during the night. The snow area which was over Ohio Friday night and this morning is forecast to move eastward into Pennsylvania today and Ohio skies will tend to clear by afternoon.

Temperatures will reach the middle and upper 30s today as some sunshine breaks through.

Under clear skies tonight, temperatures will again drop into the low 20s south and the teens north.

Sunday's outlook is for mostly cloudy skies and little change in temperature.

4 Area Schools Participating In Mock Political Convention

Four area Schools are attending the Mock Democratic Political Convention being staged at Capital University, Bexley, today.

They are Walnut Twp., Ashville, Amanda and Circleville. Walnut pupils taking part in the Democratic Convention today include Dave Weaver, George Forson, Eugene Horsley, Lloyd Davidson and chairman, Andy Duvall.

Glenn LaRue, Boyd Boone, Ruth Tipton, Jim Reese, Carol Harber and chairman, Gary Hoover, will attend the Republican Convention next Saturday.

Convention alternates are Raymond White and Ted McFarland. Convention preparations were made under the supervision of Paul Reiss, Walnut social studies teacher.

IN ADDITION to Ashville and Walnut participating in the convention are students from Amanda and Circleville High Schools.

Mock Political Conventions, anticipating the active national presidential conventions to be held this summer in Los Angeles and Chicago, were slated to start today by the Political Science Department of Capital University.

The Capital Conventions are unique because the "State" delegates are made up of high school students representing city, parochial and county schools throughout the state.

Approximately 1,400 students representing 34 Ohio high schools are expected to participate in these conventions.

The conventions are run entirely by the students. Each high school is assigned a state and is entitled to send one half the number of delegates that the state actually sends to the national convention. The students draw up their own platforms and nominate nationally prominent candidates.

Other features of the Mock Conventions, patterned after the National Conventions, are state caucuses, demonstrations for nominees, final balloting of the states and nomination of the vice-president. Prominent government leaders deliver the keynote address at their respective conventions.

THE PURPOSES of the Mock Conventions are to teach the procedure and machinery of conventions to the delegates, to stimulate political thought among the voters of tomorrow and to create a strong and active interest in important issues among high school students.

Two of these Mock Political Conventions have previously been

Plate Markings Same by Chance

Many motorists get the same license plate identification each year by making an early order, but Mrs. Emil Kurtz, Route 1, got the same number she had last year by chance.

Last year on March 21 Mrs. Kurtz purchased tags 864-KH. This year on March 21 she received plates with the same numbers and letters and with no prior order.
